British Delays In Liberating Ships are Hit

U. S. Protest Alleges 'Discrimination' in Mediterranean

SUBMITS NOTE

London Spokesman Says Americans Reluctant To Give Information

Washington — (AP)—United States protests to Great Britain over war-time measures increased today with an objection against "discriminatory" treatment of American ships in the Mediterranean and disclosure of an unpublished note on commerce with neutrals.

Secretary Hull said in an aide memoire to Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, that the American government "feels constrained to express its serious concern at the treatment by the British authority of American shipping in the Mediterranean area, and particularly at Gibraltar."

It asserted there had been discrimination against American ships at Gibraltar in that they were held an average of 12.4 days, more than three times the average period of detention of Italian vessels, and that their cargoes were given less favorable consideration than similar Italian cargoes.

Asks Prompt Measures

"This government must expect that the British government will at least take suitable and prompt measures to bring about an immediate correction of this situation," Hull's aide memoire said. "It will appreciate receiving advice that the situation has been corrected."

(An aide memoire is a formal diplomatic communication.)

The document revealed unwittingly the fact that the United States had addressed a note to Britain on Nov. 20, questioning the legality of interference by the British government with cargoes moving from one neutral country to another.

In addition to these communications, there have been notes to Britain protesting against the British blockade of German exports to the United States, interference with American mails, and forcing American ships into the combat area.

In his aide memoire, delivered Saturday but made public only last night, Hull listed nine American ships detained by the British between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15.

LONDON COMMENT

London — (AP)—A spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare said today that the reluctance of American shippers to cooperate in supplying advance information and guarantees concerning their cargoes was responsible for delays in passing United States ships through British contraband control stations.

Referring to complaints by the United States government that American ships were being detained at contraband control points an average of 12.4 days—three times as long as Italian vessels—the spokesman said these additional points figured in the situation:

Italian ships for the most part carry bulk cargoes, whereas American cargoes often include as many as 300 items, thus requiring a longer time for examination; American ships usually touch at various ports all around the Mediterranean, whereas the Italians are going only to Italy.

Britain and France Warn Rumania Against Oil Sales to Germany

Bucharest — (AP)—Britain and France today warned the Rumanian government that any attempt to compel British and French oil companies operating in Rumania to furnish oil for Germany might "lead to grave complications."

The warning followed a Rumanian decree creating a national petroleum commission with authority to control production, refining and export of all Rumanian oil "in conformity with the interests of the state."

The decree gave the commission sweeping powers, including the right to take over companies not submitting to its orders.

Affidavits Bring Veto of Council's Purchase of Truck

Charges Against Alderman McGillan Made Part of Veto Message

In a message vetoing the purchase of an International truck from the Milhaupt Spring and Auto company, Inc., for $1,100 by the city council last Wednesday, Mayor Goodland Monday called attention to two affidavits, which were made part of the veto message, in which Alderman McGillan is alleged to have contacted August Brandt, president and W. C. Wolf, a salesman for the August Brandt company, Appleton, in connection with allegedly having brought about the purchase of the truck by the city.

The affidavit by Brandt describes an alleged conversation between Brandt and Alderman McGillan after the purchase of two Ford squad cars last August and Wolf's affidavit describes conversations with Alderman McGillan in connection with the recent purchase of the International truck and also conversations concerning the city's purchase of the two squad cars.

Alderman McGillan this morning filed an affidavit in the office of Mayor John Goodland, Jr., denying the charges in the affidavits by Brandt and Wolf.

Text of Veto

Following is the text of Mayor Goodland's veto, addressed to Carl J. Becker, city clerk:

"At a meeting of the common council held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 17, 1940, the following report of the street and bridge committee was adopted: 'That the bid of the Milhaupt company of $1,100 for an International truck with a trade-in of truck No. 7, be adopted.'"

"I hereby veto same for the following reasons:

"That since the Jan. 17 meeting at which the above resolution was adopted, certain charges have been filed with me in the form of affidavits of which the council had no knowledge when the above resolution was passed."

"The affidavits speak for themselves and are attached hereto, for your consideration. I have no opinion as to the truth of the allegations contained in the affidavits. However, they are now a matter of record, and I feel it my duty as mayor to inform you of their existence."

"This veto will enable the council to reconsider its action of Jan. 17, 1940, if it so desires."

Motta, President of Switzerland 5 Times, Succumbs at Berne

Berne — (AP)—Switzerland's elder statesman, Giuseppe Motta, 69, died early today.

Five times president and a member of the government since 1911, he was chief of the Swiss political department at his death.

Motta had been ill of a heart ailment for some time. His wife and 12 children were at his bedside.

One of Switzerland's most widely known leaders, he also served the country abroad as foreign minister and League of Nations delegate. He headed the league assembly in 1924.

The son of a hotel keeper, Motta was educated at Fribourg, Munich and Heidelberg universities. He had guided the country's foreign policy since 1919 as political department head and served as president of the federal council, national governing body, in 1915, 1920, 1927, 1932 and 1937. He was vice president five terms.

He frequently visited Premier Mussolini at Rome and called at the Vatican.

Motta successfully opposed all attempts at Swiss recognition of the Soviet Union. At the league session in which Russia was ousted last month, however, he instructed the Swiss delegate to abstain from voting as a gesture of strict Swiss neutrality.

Murder Trial Jury and 2 Alternates are Picked

Green Bay — (AP)—A jury of 14, two of whom will serve as alternates, was chosen in circuit court today to try the case of Joseph Devroy, charged with killing his mother-in-law.

On the jury are three housewives, seven farmers, two merchants, a garageman and a machinist.

Opening statements of counsel were scheduled after the noon recess.

Devroy is accused of shooting Mrs. Emily Kaiser to death last July 25, a few hours after his wife, Lena, had started divorce proceedings. He has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. In another warrant, he is charged with the killing of his wife, who was shot at the same time Mrs. Kaiser was slain.

Dr. W. F. Lorenz, University of Wisconsin psychiatrist, was here to testify for the state.

RULES LAW INVALID

Madison — (AP)—Circuit Judge J. C. Hoppmann ruled today a state law requiring consent of the public service commission for discontinuance of railroad stations or agency services was unconstitutional.

CYRIL DALE FOX WINS SERVICE AWARD

Cyril Dale Fox, left above, is being congratulated by Mayor John Goodland on being selected for the distinguished service award which was presented to him last night by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at Hotel Appleton. The award is given each year to the Appleton young man outstanding in community service. The presentation was made by the mayor. Six other young men were given honorable mention. They are Horace L. Davis, Jr., Fred Boughton, George Howden, Clark Teel, Elmer R. Honkamp and John Reeve. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Browder Charges Conviction On Passport Fraud Charges Is 'Move in Drive Toward War'

Japanese Envoy Receives Data on Trade Relations

Told They Will Depend On Tokio Attitude To- ward Americans in China

Washington — (AP)—Kensuke Horinouchi, the Japanese ambassador, was told by the state department today that future commercial relations between the United States and Japan after the expiration of their commercial treaty Friday would depend upon Japan's attitude toward the rights of Americans in China.

The ambassador put three questions to Adolph A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state and received three answers, one of which contained a refusal to grant immediately Japan's suggestion for an exchange of notes defining the status of trade relations between the two countries.

Another reply informed the ambassador that after Friday Japanese merchants now doing business in the United States under treaty provisions would be regarded as temporary alien visitors.

The ambassador, who talked with Berle for more than half an hour, was said to have asked the following questions and to have received these replies:

1. Upon the expiration Friday of the treaty of commerce of 1911 will there be any change in the import duties and tonnage rates?

The reply was that the expiration of the treaty did not of itself bring about any changes. Further, that the ambassador was advised that, as the treaty expired, the United States would be regarded as temporary alien visitors.

Paderewski Heads Poland's Council

Famous Pianist Elected Unanimously at Ses- sion in Paris

Paris — (AP)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, world famous pianist, today was unanimously elected president of Poland's national council—the parliament of the Polish government in exile.

It is Paderewski's first return to politics since he resigned as premier of Poland in 1919 after leading his country's long fight for independence.

In a colorful ceremony in the grand ballroom of the Polish embassy, the former premier was acclaimed successively by Polish President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, Premier General Wladyslaw Sikorski and the council.

In replying with a call for Polish freedom, the aged musician brought tears to the eyes of his assembled countrymen.

Paderewski's long tapering fingers trembled as a secretary helped him to his feet after his unanimous election, but in a strong voice he declared:

"Poland is immortal. We will deliver her from captivity and will raise her from the ruins. We take this engagement before God!"

Picket Line at Theater Fails to Bar First Lady

Washington — (AP)—A picket line in front of the theater failed last night to keep Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, four cabinet members and three supreme court justices from attending the premiere of the motion picture, "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois."

The pickets, both Negroes and white persons, protested against the theater's barring Negroes.

The management explained it all ways had been the practice of theaters here not to admit Negroes.

New York — (AP)—The government, pursuing its drive against federal law violations that might have foreign implications, added to its list today the conviction of Earl Browder on passport fraud charges—a conviction the Communist leader said was "but one movement in the drive toward war."

Browder was silent yesterday as he left the courtroom where he had been sentenced to four years in prison and fined $2,000, but he went to a Madison Square Garden Lenin Memorial rally a few hours later to lash out against the government after pleading in court in his own behalf that he was a victim of a federal campaign against "civil rights."

Browder, native of Kansas and head of the American Communist party, heard his verdict after a four day trial and a 45-minute jury deliberation. He was convicted on each of two counts that might have brought him 10 years in prison.

His bail of $7,500 was continued until tomorrow when he must appear for approval of new bond pending an appeal.

At the Lenin mass meeting Browder termed his conviction a "great honor."

"The verdict is but one movement in the drive toward war," he said.

Bank Robber Is Slain in Kansas

Shot Down by Marshal as He Flees After Sec- ond Holdup

Lyons, Kans. — (AP)—Bullets fired by an alert marshal killed a man as he fled after robbing two banks in nearby central Kansas towns within 15 minutes today.

The man first held up the Bush-ton State bank, herded three bank employees into the vault and fled in a coupe with $432.

The robber then drove to Claffin, eight miles west, took $1,054, all the money in the till, pushed four bank employees into the vault and ran to his car.

Fred Adams, city marshal, who had been notified to watch for the Bush-ton robber, saw the man holding up the Claffin bank, waited until the robber got into the car and then fired three shots. The robber slumped over dead.

J. L. Hamilton, president of the Farmers and Merchants State bank at Claffin, the second bank robbed, identified the holdup man as Russell Hunter, about 30, a flour mill worker.

Judge Believes Young Couple He Married are Brother and Sister but Defers Decision

Indianapolis — (AP)—Juvenile Court Judge Wilfred Bradshaw deferred today until Thursday making a decision as to whether Leroy Williamson, 20, and the 18-year-old girl he married Jan. 6 are brother and sister.

But after hearing testimony by Mrs. Crystal Harker of Urbana, Ill., an aunt of the boy, the judge asserted, "from all of the records the evidence points unerringly to the fact that this boy and girl are at least half-brother and sister."

He added, however, that he wanted to "think about it" for a while and called the principals to meet with him again at 2 o'clock p. m. Thursday. Meanwhile, at Williamson's request, Judge Bradshaw said he would see what arrangements could be made for a blood test.

The judge annulled the marriage last Friday after being informed the boy and girl, both wards of the juvenile court, were brother and sister.

Morgenthau Would Raise Debt Limit; Favors New Taxes to Balance Budget

Funds Group Slashes Over 13 Million From 2 Measures

HOUSE GETS BILLS

Committee Also Favors Shift of Farm De- partment Money

Washington — (AP)—The house appropriations committee, expressly endeavoring to hold spending "to the lowest possible figure," trimmed $13,314,300, today from the recommended $1,080,657,212 total of two administration appropriation bills.

The treasury-post office supply measure, carrying funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1, was reduced by $11,491,900, making it $1,032,154,612, and an "urgent deficiency" appropriation was cut by $1,822,400, making it $58,502,600.

The committee also approved a resolution to permit the agricultural department to transfer $11,000,000 from its funds for parity payments to its price adjustment program.

All three measures, reported to the house simultaneously, will be considered after the house has disposed of a resolution to continue the Dies committee investigation of un-American activities.

The cuts were generally in line with recent house and appropriations committee actions. Last week the house slashed $94,800,000 from the independent offices supply bill, and the house and the senate appropriations committee together cut a total of $20,000,000 from an emergency defense appropriation.

Sharp Cut in Funds

In reducing the treasury-post office measure the committee knocked out $3,519,000 of a fund asked by the coast guard for its neutrality patrol, reducing the sum to $4,290,655. It refused to allow $1,820,000 for the installation of 21 marine-detection devices on 21 coast-guard cutters and 49 patrol boats and also disallowed $1,699,000 for purchase of new airplanes. The amount recommended by the committee for the latter purpose was $300,000.

Approving the president's request for an additional $3,154,629 for foreign air mail for the coming fiscal year, the committee approved a total of $15,874,149 for that purpose. The increase over the present year's appropriation was attributed to increased rates on the trans-Pacific route and to stepped-up frequency of trips to South America.

Probation Division to Have 3 Branch Offices

Madison — (AP)—Branch offices of the probation and parole division of the state welfare department will be opened at Eau Claire, Green Bay and Milwaukee early in February, Welfare Director Frank C. Klode announced today.

He said the division staff of 14 now working in the Madison main office would be reduced to six or eight and the remaining employees transferred to the branch offices. Each branch would have a supervisor and one or two stenographers.

BULLETIN

New York — (AP)—Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association (A. F. of L.), 10 other persons, the association itself and two locals were indicted today for conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust act. Handed up to Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell, the indictment also named Anthony Camarda, vice president of the I. L. A., nine officers of union locals, and a local of the building material teamsters union.

House Expected to Approve Renewal of Dies Committee Despite Congressman's Charge

Washington — (AP)—The house today voted continuation of the Dies committee's investigation of un-American activities for another year.

Washington — (AP)—A charge that Representative Dies (D-Texas) had associated with a "prominent collaborator" of the Christian front brought prompt denials today and failed to stem house sentiment for renewal of the Dies committee on un-American activities.

The accusation against Dies was placed in the Congressional Record yesterday by Representative Hook (D-Mich.) as the house rules committee voted to favor re-establishing the Dies committee.

Hook asserted Dies had been "taking us for a ride for his own political purposes" and linked his name with Mervin K. Hart of New York, whom he described as a "prominent collaborator" of the Christian front.

(Seventeen members of the Christian front have been charged in New York with plotting to overthrow the government.)

Dies, ill at Orange, Texas, called Hook's statement "too ridiculous to justify serious consideration."

Hart, president of the New York State Economic Council, denied in New York that he was "directly or indirectly connected" with the front.

The resolution to extend the life of the Dies committee made no provision for funds to carry on the inquiry. That subject will be treated separately in a week or two.

Representative Sabath (D-Ill.), lead off man today for those critical of the committee, said he was "opposed" to its renewal because "many outstanding men and women have been unfairly assailed, criticized and charged with being communists" by the committee.

Representative Allen (R-Ill.), the first speaker for the resolution, declared that during 1939, the second year of the committee's investigation, results were "evident" and "facts were soon brought out concerning the various subversive groups."

"Publicity relative to these leaders and their foreign connections, their racketeering in money affairs, and their flagrant violation of laws were clearly proven," he declared, adding that the committee had shown "it can happen here."

Lewis Assails McNutt as Mine Workers Open Conclave; Seeks Higher Maximum Age Pensions

Columbus, Ohio — (AP)—John L. Lewis declared today that Paul V. McNutt, federal social security administrator, hoped with the help of a "motley crew of two per cent bagmen" to "buy enough votes to make him president of the United States."

The C.I.O. chief, opening the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, described McNutt as a "political adventurer."

McNutt's name was brought up as Lewis recalled what he termed oppressive legislation against labor and displacement of mine workers by strike-breakers by the king and his troops in England, Lewis added:

"The king sent in his troops like when a governor, whose name was McNutt, sent troops to protect the strangers who were taking the jobs of mine workers, whose children were hungry and whose wives were sick."

"A political adventurer, whose name was McNutt, who was accompanied by a motley crew of two per cent bagmen, which he hoped would be able to buy enough votes to make him president of the United States so that he would have more soldiers to play with so that he could protect more strangers."

Lewis' reference to the "two per cent bagmen" presumably referred to political campaign assessments while McNutt was governor of Indiana.

"If a congressman, senator or governor attempts to take away your natural prerogatives, call him to a political account," Lewis urged.

Lewis also described as like one of the "kings" the governor Kentucky who sent troops into Harlan county to protect the "strangers" from the anger of the displaced mine workers. Former Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler of Kentucky ordered troops to the mine fields last year.

For Age Pension Changes

Lewis and fellow-officers of the United Mine Workers urged that old age pensions under the social security setup be increased to $60 a month from the present $40 maximum, and that the minimum eligibility age be cut to 60 from 65.

Social security taxes on pay rolls should be abolished in favor of increased levies on higher incomes, on inheritances and on gifts, said the joint report of Lewis' Vice President Philip Murray and Secretary.

Morgenthau said that if it were up to him he would recommend raising the debt limit from the present $45,000,000,000 and that he would "take another look" at the situation when the figure reached $49,000,000,000.

Increase Not Dangerous

"I am willing to say now, gentlemen, that there is no particular danger involved if congress would raise the debt limit to $50,000,000,000," Morgenthau told the committee.

"Beyond that I would not venture an opinion."

He also expressed the opinion that all federal expenditures such as public works, public roads and reclamation projects should be trimmed or dispensed with temporarily in view of prospective heavy expenditures for defense.

Morgenthau said that his guess was that business conditions should be "at least as good in 1940" as they were last year, although war conditions in Europe and Asia made the situation rather uncertain.

He also testified that the interest on the public debt the next fiscal year would be $1,100,000,000, about $50,000,000 more than in the current year.

Urges Inquiry

For the third time he recommended that congress inquire into bank holding companies—situations "where a bank holding company can go in and buy up a bank and take control away from the community."

Morgenthau and his aids told the committee that the treasury's financing program had been well received. They said that insured banks now hold $15,038,000,000 of federal obligations.

Treasury procurement division officials disclosed that they would like to store up $202,000,000 worth of strategic materials for use in a future war emergency.

The present congressional authorization for storage of such materials as manganese and tin is $100,000,000. Congress already has appropriated $10,000,000 for this purpose and the government purchasing agents asked $15,000,000 for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Smuggling Increased

Reports from other departments showed that:

1. Smuggling increased last year. Customs bureau officials said that seizures of merchandise increased from 5,728 in 1938 to 5,877, but that the value of the merchandise jumped from $424,536 to $1,129,483. Most of the recovered material was oriental rugs.

2. The internal revenue bureau has recovered about $3,000,000 in excess profits from manufacturers of defense equipment. The law limits profits on naval vessels to 10 per cent and on army aircraft to 12 per cent.

3. The bureau also recovered more than $2,000,000 from 22 "movie people" whom the bureau thought "had a real intent to evade the payment of income taxes."

4. W. S. Alexander, federal alcohol administrator, estimated that brewers pay $1,000,000 daily to federal and state governments and distillers contribute $900,000,000 annually. He said the federal government received about $800,000,000 of the total while the rest went to the states.

Bodies of 2 Nurses From Shawano Found In California Cabin

Tulare, Calif. — (AP)—The bodies of two nurses who came to Tulare Sunday from Shawano, Wis., to work in a hospital were found yesterday in a carbon monoxide-filled motor court cabin.

The nurses were Jeanette Tebo and Lorraine Noel. The former once lived at Garden, Mich. Miss Noel's home formerly was in Green Bay, Wis. Both were about 25 years old. They received their nurses' training in St. Mary's hospital, Green Bay, and about six months ago obtained employment at the Shawano municipal hospital.

The two left Shawano by motor several days ago, stopped at Alhambra, Calif., to visit with Miss Noel's mother and came on to Tulare.

Coroner Roy Brooks said a gas heater was burning and that the cabin room which they occupied was closed tightly.

Thinks 50 Billion Maximum Would Not be Dangerous

ASKS ECONOMY

Believes Business Will be 'At Least as Good' As Last Year

Washington — (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau contends that the limit on the federal debt should be raised to $50,000,000,000 and that the budget should be balanced by reduced expenditures and increased taxes.

Answering a barrage of questions, the treasury secretary told members of the house appropriations committee during hearings on his department's 1941 supply bill:

"I think it (the debt limit) should be raised to $50,000,000,000."

"Do I think the budget should be balanced? Yes. Do I think expenditures should be cut down? Yes. Do I think taxes should be increased? Yes. But if you say, 'Morgenthau, what kind of taxes should there be?' I can not answer that because I do not know."

The report today:

Morgenthau said that if it were up to him he would recommend raising the debt limit from the present $45,000,000,000 and that he would "take another look" at the situation when the figure reached $49,000,000,000.

Increase Not Dangerous

"I am willing to say now, gentlemen, that there is no particular danger involved if congress would raise the debt limit to $50,000,000,000," Morgenthau told the committee.

Former Judge at Waukesha Given Six-Month Term

Evans Pleads Guilty to Charge of Obstructing Justice

Waukesha—(P)—Former Municipal Judge David M. Evans, 33, began serving today a six months sentence in the house of correction on his plea of guilty to a charge of obstructing justice.

The charge was based on Evans' acceptance of a $300 loan, while judge, from Herman R. Salen, Waukesha lawyer and former district attorney.

Special Prosecutor Winfred Zabel said that when Evans had served the term, he would move for dismissal of four other charges against the former judge—obstructing court records, larceny as bailor, perjury and being an inmate of a disorderly house. Evans agreed to surrender his license to practice law.

Circuit Judge George J. Leicht of Wausau passed sentence after receiving Evans' plea late yesterday. The court granted Evans 24 hours in which to wind up his affairs, but the former jurist finished the work last night and was taken to the house of correction. He was assigned to the furniture factory.

Judge's Oath "Sacred"

Judge Leicht said as he sentenced Evans:

"I don't know anything more sacred than the oath of a judge. If the courts can't be trusted, who can?"

Salen recently pleaded guilty to a charge of obstructing justice in connection with the loan, and in lieu of sentence, surrendered his license to practice law.

At a preliminary hearing recently on the obstructing justice charge against Evans, testimony was introduced to show that of 23 cases of indigents brought before Evans from the time of the loan until Evans was removed from office, 11 had been assigned to Salen's law firm.

Evans was scheduled to have gone to trial yesterday on the charge of obstructing justice. A county grand jury indictment alleged that Evans, after presiding as a justice of the peace in an unlawful detainee case, destroyed an appeal bond, filed with him by one of the parties, while the appeal from his decision still was pending in a higher court.

Remanded in 1938

Evans automatically was removed from his judgeship July 22, 1938, upon his conviction and sentencing to two years in prison on the perjury charge, based on his testimony before the grand jury. The state supreme court granted him a new trial on a ruling that the trial jury had been instructed improperly by Judge Jesse Earle.

Fred Lubahn, town of New Berlin, lawkeeper, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of false swearing before the Waukesha county grand jury, and Circuit Judge George J. Leicht, Wausau, fined him $100 and costs.

The case of George L. Peck, former municipal court clerk, charged with perjury and false swearing, was continued indefinitely. Court attaches said he probably would be tried in April.

May Establish Plane Research Laboratory in Milwaukee Area

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—Senator Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls Republican, is seeking establishment of a government airplane research laboratory in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee is pulling for the laboratory, in case it should be authorized.

Wiley took the matter up with the national advisory committee on aeronautics, which has recommended the establishment of more research laboratories in aviation.

"There is urgent and immediate need for an intelligent defense program that is not unduly centralized," Wiley said. "A strongly centralized defense program is unhealthy economically and undesirable from a defense standpoint."

He cited the fact that the present aviation research laboratories are in California and Virginia, both of which are on coasts and thus subject to wartime attack. He said Wisconsin offers a strategically ideal location for such a laboratory, and that it can furnish the labor needed.

Dan J. McNally, director of the public affairs division of the Milwaukee association of commerce, has been here seeking establishment of the laboratory in Milwaukee.

Edgerton Is Under Rabies Quarantine

Madison—(P)—A rabies quarantine for the city of Edgerton was ordered today by the state department of agriculture.

It was the sixth rabies area designated in Rock county since Dec. 15. Previous orders affected the city of Janesville, village of Milton, the town of Harmony, and parts of the towns of Bradford and Milton.

Within these areas dogs must be kept on leash until the 90 day quarantines expire.

Another Ice Age Forecast but It's Thousands of Years Off

BY STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

Associated Press Science Editor

Washington—(P)—The approach of another ice age was forecast today by Wilmot H. Bradley of the United States geological survey. It's thousands of years off, however, and has nothing to do with the current cold spell.

Mud from the ocean bottom has shown a fairly regular sequence of hot and cold "spells" in the earth's history, Bradley wrote in the Scientific Monthly, and the world is now in one of its warm periods of existence.

Dr. Charles S. Fugot, geophysicist of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, provided Bradley with cores of ocean mud, from two to six feet long, obtained by shooting a steel pipe into the ocean floor at various places off the Atlantic coast.

By analyzing the mud, washed down through countless centuries from the rivers and the melting glaciers which once covered the western hemisphere north of the Mason and Dixon line, Bradley traced the climate record for millions of years.

During the periods of the great glacials, when life was possible only in areas near the equator, little sediment was washed into the oceans. When the ice melted, however, huge deposits of mud were swept down by floods.

From this succession of alternate dry and cold, and wet and warm periods, Bradley pieced together the world's weather history. The record indicated that 40,000 to 50,000 years ago the latest ice age ended, and the glaciers retreated toward the poles.

Wisconsin Joins In Rate Protest

Is One of Five States Asking ICC Reconsider North-South Case

Washington—(P)—Five mid-western states have petitioned the Interstate Commerce commission to reconsider its recent decision in the north-south freight rate case.

The states were Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

The commission ordered lower rates effective Feb. 1 on a dozen manufactured articles moving from southern producing areas into the north. Southerners said it established the precedent that reasonably uniform rates should apply from adjacent producing areas to common markets.

The mid-western states, in a joint brief, charged that the commission failed to follow "appropriate rate-making factors" but predicated its decision "upon the economic effect" which the new rates are calculated to produce.

The mid-western states charged the south did not want "mile-for-mile parity."

"It wants to reach the market of the north against the competition of the north producers who are located closer to these destinations by the use of rate scales fashioned with decreasing grades of progression and designed to move traffic for long as well as short distances," the petition added.

Northern railroads have filed notice with the commission that they intend to seek re-consideration of the case.

DIES AT MANTOWOC

Manitowoc—(P)—John J. Kelley, 72, former credit manager of the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company plant here, died yesterday.

He served two terms as president of the board of education and was a member of the public utilities commission. His wife died Dec. 29.

Racine Republicans Want Instructed Slate

Racine—(P)—James Fornary, chairman of the Racine county Republican committee, announced today that the county delegation would protest against a movement for an uninstructed delegation at the national Republican convention at a first district meeting at Elkhorn Jan. 29.

The district includes Green, Walworth, Rock, Racine and Kenosha counties.

Fornary said his group would present a resolution advocating selection of delegates instructed to vote for some definite candidate.

Expand Plans for Soil Restoration

Representatives of Three States Hold Conference

Milwaukee—(P)—Representatives of federal farm and conservation agencies from Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, holding a 2-day meeting here, drafted plans today for stimulation of soil restoration work.

Harry S. Muir, regional director for the farm security administration, announced that demonstration work would be carried out on 469 tenant purchase farms in the area. Of the number, 130 are in Wisconsin.

The educational work will be expanded to include farms of rural rehabilitation borrowers, of which 7,730 are in Wisconsin, Muir added.

In attendance were officials of the soil conservation service, farm security administration, the bureau of agricultural economics, the forest service and the farm credit administration. These agencies, plus the agricultural adjustment administration, plan to work closely with state college of agriculture extension services and county planning committees.

Good soil is needed for profitable farming of any nature, the conferees agreed.

Governor Will Make Sure Proposed Camp Is Started in North

Madison—(P)—Governor Heil intends to go "all the way" in support of Frank C. Klode, director of the state welfare department, who proposes an ex-convicts' rehabilitation camp at Lake Keweenaw, on Lake Michigan.

Heil said last night the camp no longer is a project in the discussion stage, but is a certainty.

Owners of summer homes near Lake Keweenaw, and others who have been protesting the camp's location, will cooperate after they have been "informed of the true facts," Heil declared.

The governor expressed surprise that there should be any objections. According to Klode, there now are six camps of exactly the same nature in the state. Referring to them, Heil added:

"A couple of years ago, when we announced we were going to discontinue one of these camps in the northern part of the state, a bunch of county officials came down here and pleaded with us to reconsider."

"That's the usual attitude all over the state in regard to these camps. I can't imagine why all the fuss about this new one at Lake Keweenaw, but it's interesting to observe that all the petitions were prepared by one man, who has stirred up all the rest of the people up there."

Select LaCrosse For Mid-Winter GOP Convention

Party Delegates Will Face Job of Party Re-organization

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—(P)—Appleton was selected over LaCrosse as the site for the special mid-winter state Republican convention next month.

It was announced here last night that a special convention committee and Dr. F. L. Gullickson, state party head, completed arrangements for the meeting.

Lack of suitable facilities led the committee to veto the invitation of Appleton for the convention, it was explained. Appleton's bid was put by Dr. C. L. Kolb, Outagamie county chairman, and a member of the committee of ten planning the convention.

Reorganization of the party machinery will be the principal job before the party delegates at LaCrosse, Feb. 19, Gullickson said last night.

He said his convention call, listing the special details of the program, would be issued in a few days.

Although party leaders refused to discuss it, it appeared extremely likely that the contest over delegate campaigns now under way in Wisconsin may lead to some violent disputes on the convention floor. Some Republicans profess to believe that the mid-winter convention, first in many years, is inspired by some prominent Republicans who want to get approval from the official party organization for an uninstructed slate of delegates to the national party convention this year.

Heil's Request

Governor Heil has already asked for endorsement of an uninstructed slate, although campaigns of Dewey, Vandenberg and Taft are already underway in the state.

Robert C. Bassett, Green Bay attorney and Fox river valley Republican leader, will be the keynote speaker at the LaCrosse meeting, at which up to 2,300 delegates are expected, according to Gullickson.

Besides Kolb, valley representatives on the convention committee include R. Gordon Pope of Neenah.

The LaCrosse meeting is expected to clear up many presently doubtful situations within the party, including the identity of the men who will become bidders for the senatorial nomination. While in 1938 there were six contestants for the designation, there has yet been no inkling of candidates this year. Two mentioned occasionally are M. G. Eberlein of Shawano, and Fred Clausen of Horicon. Neither has yet commented on such mention.

U. W. Professor Is Named to New Post

New York—(P)—Dr. Walter R. Sharp, professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin, was appointed head of the department of government at the college of the City of New York yesterday. He will assume his duties Sept. 1.

Dr. Sharp, now engaged in research in Washington on a Guggenheim fellowship, has been at Wisconsin since 1924 and served as visiting lecturer in government at Harvard University in 1934-35.

Wage Law Doesn't Affect Business Policy—O'Malley

Aimed Simply at Raising Purchasing Power And Employment

The federal wage and hour law "makes no attempt to dictate business policies" and is reaching the two objectives that congress had in mind when it was passed, increasing employment and purchasing power, Thomas O'Malley, Chicago, regional director, said in a talk before the Appleton Lions club yesterday noon in the Conway hotel.

O'Malley said that 90 per cent of the employers in the United States are obeying it in spirit, if not exactly in letter, that 75 per cent "have always obeyed its provisions" and that the legislation was directed at "the chiselers in industry."

He said that since its passage, the law has been directly responsible for creating some kind of employment for 14 millions of people and that it is estimated the increase of minimum hourly wage from 25 to 30 cents will boost purchasing power among American workers by $100,000,000 annually.

Termining it the "first employees' law ever passed by congress," O'Malley said, that it protects the honest and generous employer against "chiselers" who have been unwilling to pay proper wages and who, because of low wage standards, could undersell others.

Essence of Law

The essence of the law is the prohibition against shipments of products in interstate trade, that have been manufactured in "sub-standard working conditions." He remarked that the wage and hour administration expects firms to "take proper precautions" that products they buy are made by firms living up to the law. Firms which purchase goods they know to be made under sub-standard conditions are as liable for prosecution as the original offenders, he said.

O'Malley pointed out that the law "has withstood 125 attacks against its constitutionality in the 16 months of its operation."

It has revealed "sweet shop conditions" of unsuspected severity, he said, and has done much towards eliminating "vicious practices" in industries that are run on a piece work basis.

Labor Board to Hold Elections

Green Bay Garage Employees Will Vote on Bargaining Agent

Madison—(P)—The Wisconsin Employment Relations board announced it would supervise a referendum Thursday among production employees of the T. L. Smith Co., of Milwaukee, to determine whether they want an all-union agreement between the company and Local 347, United Automobile Workers of America, an American Federation of Labor union.

The board said about 100 employees were eligible to participate.

The election to choose representatives for collective bargaining will be conducted by the board Jan. 30 among employees of 12 garages in Green Bay. About 160 employees are eligible. They will either accept or reject the International Association of Machinists, local 1105, an AFL affiliate, as their bargaining agency.

The Brown County Automobile Dealers association petitioned for the election.

Board employees today were conducting a hearing in Milwaukee on a petition for determination of representatives filed by Magidson Cigar company, which is involved in a strike called by International Cigarmakers Union No. 25. About 50 employees were affected.

This Patrolman Used His Head in Two Ways

Des Moines, Iowa—(P)—When highway patrolman N. B. Wilson came to the station wearing a derby hat while a man with him was wearing the patrolman's uniform cap, other officers were perplexed.

Explanation disclosed the civilian had been arrested for driving while intoxicated and had flatly refused to go to the station unless Patrolman Wilson would agree to change hats with him.

BIGGEST PAY

Francis A. Countway (above), president of Lever Brothers Co. at Cambridge, Mass., was at the head of the list when corporate salaries were released in Washington, from last year's corporate income tax returns. Countway, a soap manufacturer, outdistanced all of the fabulous salaries paid members of the movie colony. Salaries of $75,000 and more were released.

There could scarcely be a clearer call for support against Russia than was contained in the remarkable Winston Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty. In graphic language which only a master phrase-maker like Churchill could command, he not only invited but warned the non-belligerent states to join the Anglo-French allies in aiding the Finns.

Speaks for Government

Allied statesmen have reproved Russia sternly before this, but Churchill's blast smelled of gunpowder. He went so far as to say that if Russia should crush Finland, "it might well herald a return to the dark ages when every vestige of human progress during 2,000 years would be engulfed."

I don't know whether it is generally understood in America but when a British cabinet minister makes a public pronouncement he binds the entire government by his words. That is the tradition. The first lord was speaking, not on his own responsibility, but with the full approval of Prime Minister Chamberlain, who is responsible for all government policies.

It is difficult to escape the conclusion that Britain—and that of course means France as well—has decided to make an issue of the Finnish show. Having carefully avoided doing anything to drag Russia into the war up to the invasion of Finland, it now is giving many indications that it intends to put Russia in the same category as Germany in carrying out the Anglo-French aims.

New Allied Strategy

In making this move the allies calculate to kill two birds with one stone. They proposed to throw up a dyke against the red tide which has started to flow across Europe. And they see an opportunity to reach Germany's right wing by getting into the Finnish fight and obtaining bases for operation in Scandinavia.

This new allied strategy adds considerable weight to a statement made last month in Bridgeport, Conn., by Alfred Duff Cooper, former British first lord of the admiralty. He forecast war between England and the Soviet if Russia should defeat Finland and gain control of the Scandinavian peninsula.

Now it would appear that Duff Cooper's former colleagues in the cabinet are going his recommendation one better by a move calculated to stop Russia before it has had a chance to get control of Scandinavia. It looks as though the war might be carried to the communists.

This stiffened attitude of the Anglo-French brotherhood presumably is due in no small degree to the amazing feat of the Finns in standing off the red invasion. Churchill summed the position up when he said:

"The service rendered to mankind by Finland is magnificent. There, exposed for all the world to see, is the military incapacity of the red army and of the red air force. Many illusions about Soviet Russia have been dispelled in these few and fierce weeks of fighting in the Arctic circle."

However that may be, there is no doubt that prior to the invasion of

General War Appears More Imminent as Allies Pledge Military Help for Finland

BY DEWITT MacKENZIE

New York—(P)—There can be small doubt that all Europe finally is feeling the fearful chill of another general war in the Arctic blasts which are pouring down from red-beleaguered Finland.

This foreboding will be increased by the fresh Russian drive in a race against time to try to smash the Finns before they can be saved by outside aid. Despite the sub-zero weather in which men freeze to death almost as soon as they fall wounded in the snow, another heavy Soviet offensive is developing on the Karelian isthmus and north of Lake Ladoga.

The way things now lie, it will be a rare stroke of luck if the bolshevik invasion of the little Republic doesn't merge into the Hitlerian conflict, dragging some of the anti-communist neutrals—maybe a goodly number of them—along with it.

There could scarcely be a clearer call for support against Russia than was contained in the remarkable Winston Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty. In graphic language which only a master phrase-maker like Churchill could command, he not only invited but warned the non-belligerent states to join the Anglo-French allies in aiding the Finns.

So we find the allies adopting a position which can mean nothing else than that they are prepared to take on Russia with Germany, if necessary. That of course would mean a general war.

Nazidom hasn't been saying much, although it is known that Berlin all along has feared Finland might become a base of allied operations against Germany. For this reason the Nazi press has warned Norway and Sweden that Germany may aid Russia if these Scandinavian countries provide routes for the passage of allied troops or munitions to Finland.

Much depends naturally on what success the allies have in persuading the neutrals to join them. Meantime a very considerable stream of aid—just how much hasn't been disclosed—is going to Finland.

Schubert to Talk On Anniversary of Kiwanis Birthday

Appleton Club Will Celebrate Founding of Organization

The Appleton Kiwanis club tomorrow will celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis International at its noon luncheon in the Conway hotel.

W. E. Schubert, newly elected president, will deliver the president's message. A. G. Oosterhouse will talk on "History of Kiwanis" and John Lonsdorf on "The Future of Kiwanis."

Past presidents and charter members of the club have been invited to attend the meeting as honor guests. Past presidents are Joshua L. Johns, Dr. E. L. Bolton, Frank F. Wheeler, Fred Schlitz, Walter Hughes, Oosterhouse, Lonsdorf, Paul V. Cary, George Nollings, Julius Koppin, Alex O. Benz, Carl Bertram and Willard Schenck.

Charter members of the club are Dr. Bolton, T. H. Belling, G. C. Cast, John Lonsdorf, Guy B. Marston, Oosterhouse, Christ L. Roemer, E. A. Walther, and G. D. Ziegler.

Congressman Johns, who is serving the Eighth Wisconsin district as its representative at Washington, was president of Kiwanis International during the convention year 1933-34. He was elected at the Los Angeles convention in June of 1933.

He was a member of the international board of trustees, 1928-32, and was international vice president in 1932-33. He was president of the Appleton club in 1924 and 1925 and served as lieutenant governor of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan district in 1926 and governor in 1927.

The first Kiwanis club was organized at Detroit, receiving its charter from the state of Michigan Jan. 21, 1915. There are now 2,650 clubs with 105,000 members in the United States and Canada. Bennett O. Knudson, Albert Lea, Minn., international president, talked in Appleton recently.

Highway Funds May be Further Reduced by Heil

No Assurance Allotment Of $10,000,000 Will Be Available

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Although the revised highway budget recently promulgated by the highway commission under the supervision of Governor Heil suggests an expenditure of more than $10,000,000 for new construction during 1940 and 1941, there is no assurance that such an amount will actually be spent, highway circles had concluded today after close study of official statements and plans.

Although the estimated $5,000,000 available for each of the two succeeding construction seasons is already drastically reduced from the normal construction budget, highway builders see no assurance that even that reduced amount can be counted on.

Considered significant was this statement of Heil's policy which was given to several leading members of the state legislature.

"Governor Heil recognizes that the estimated income of the highway department may be reasonably correct, but feels that the state should not definitely commit itself for new construction contracts at this time based on anticipated income, and that any new road construction program should be predicated on need and adequate funds, without impairing the payment of cash aids to the localities."

That was considered as an omen that the governor, empowered by statute to do so, does not intend to approve any highway jobs he does not consider adequate, and that he will keep a stiff rein on all construction disbursements during the remainder of his term.

Lenroots Celebrate

Their Golden Wedding

Washington—(AP)—Former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin and Mrs. Lenroot observed their golden wedding anniversary Monday.

Lenroot, now associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals, attended funeral services for Senator Borah then went to his office, returning home in time to welcome a few friends.

Mrs. Lenroot, the former Clara Clough of Superior, Wis., has been in poor health for several years, but sat up for a time today to receive visitors.

With the Lenroots was their only living child, Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, head of the children's bureau in the labor department. Another daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lenroot Bromberg, died five years ago in Los Angeles.

Protest Delay in Payment Of State Beverage Revenue

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—League of Wisconsin Municipalities officials hoped today to carry their protest against delay in payment of state beverage taxes to localities to Governor Heil in person as Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman made good on his threat to withhold payment of those funds until highway privilege tax payments, due earlier, are fully paid.

"We don't want the state to start a policy of delaying everything due us," said Fred MacMillan, secretary and spokesman of the municipal government organization.

"We don't want to create a precedent," he observed.

The present difficulties arise out of the state treasury crisis last month, when Governor Heil persuaded the city officials to accept an installment payment plan for almost $4,000,000 in highway privilege taxes due the cities by law.

It was explained at that time that the treasury had an insufficient balance, but that if the cities would wait a few months, the whole account would be paid. Cities accepted a payment of 50 per cent of the amount due, and agreed to wait until Feb. 1 for the third quarterly payment, and until March 1 for the balance.

Defers Payment
In the meantime, however, the beverage tax division certified to the state treasury's office the sum of more than $2,000,000 due the cities under law as proceeds from state beverage taxes, on the basis of 74 cents per inhabitant. That payment is customarily made on Jan.

15, although the law does not make a specific date of payment.

Zimmerman announced that until the highway privilege tax had been paid in full, he would not honor the drafts for beverage taxes, unless the treasury balance had increased accordingly. Saturday he completed the mailing of the second installment of the highway taxes, while he held up the beverage tax checks.

MacMillan explained that cities had arranged their finances to allow for a delay in the highway taxes, but that they expected to receive their other payments from the state on the dates due. It would be setting a dangerous precedent, he warned, for the state to delay payments for its own convenience, without regard for the financial problems of the local units of government.

Jonathan Williams was the first head of the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1802.

Municipal Funds Can be Garnisheed

Supreme Court Rules Money in Bank Not Necessarily Exempt

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The state supreme court has declared that funds of a municipal corporation on deposit in a bank are subject to garnishment action.

The opinion sustained a decision of Circuit Judge Arnold Murphy of Marinette in a case involving School District No. 1 in the town of Tippler, Florence county, known as one of the smallest and poorest in the state, the state bank of Florence, and the state bank of Wabeno in Forest county.

The state bank of Florence had started garnishment proceedings against the Tippler school district, which was liable to the bank on a judgment for $471. The school district had funds on deposit in the Wabeno bank, so the latter was made garnishee defendant.

Had $1,600 on Deposit

The town treasurer had originally spread the judgment on the district's tax roll, but he had been unable to collect sufficient taxes to satisfy the liability, the court record showed.

Although the district had funds on deposit at the Wabeno bank totaling $1,600, including an amount of state aid, the school officers argued that since the district is a municipal corporation neither it nor its funds are subject to garnishment.

Judge Murphy decided that unless such funds in the hands of a third person are specifically exempted by statute, the claim is not tenable. The supreme court upheld the judgment.

Menasha Cagers Start to Drill for Contests on Road

Team to Play Shawano, Green Bay West, Clintonville Away From Home

Menasha -- Menasha High school cagers have started preparation for a series of three games on the road. Friday night the Bluejays will travel to Shawano, next Tuesday they will play a return game at Green Bay West, and on Feb. 9 the Jays will travel to Clintonville. They have no game scheduled for Friday, Feb. 2.

The next home game will be Tuesday, Feb. 13, when Kaukauna comes to Menasha. The Jays then will travel to New London Feb. 16 and will close the conference season Feb. 23 with West De Pere playing at Menasha.

In seven conference games the Bluejays have piled up the rather astounding total of 112 fouls, an average of 16 a game. They accumulated that average in spite of the fact that against Kaukauna they were charged with only seven fouls. Their high marks have been against Neenah and West De Pere with 19 in each game. In the other Neenah game they were charged with 18 and had the same number in the New London game.

Lead in Field Goals -- The Bluejays have been outscored 186 to 184 but only because of those fouls. From the field the Jays have scored 67 goals and have had opponents to 59 even though they won only three and lost four. They have been shooting free shots at nearly a 500 average, making 50 and missing 51.

Opponents have scored 68 free throws, 18 more points than the Jays managed from the free throw line, the equivalent of nine baskets. Fortunately for the Jays, most opponents have not been very accurate from the free throw line or the margin might be even greater.

Opponents have missed 68 free shots but missed 81. It had not been for Neenah, with 31 out of 51 shots and West De Pere with 14 out of 23, the total for opponents from the free throw line would be even lower.

Opponents have committed only 82 fouls, an average of less than 12 a game in comparison with the Bluejay record.

Neenah Chamber Will Hold Anniversary Banquet at Valley Inn

Neenah--Presentation of the distinguished service award will feature the first anniversary banquet of the Neenah Junior Chamber of Commerce at 8:30 tonight at the Valley Inn.

The award will be presented by Norton J. Williams, president of the Equitable Reserve association and the board of education, to a Neenah young man who has rendered outstanding civic service in Neenah during the last year.

The recipient of the award has been named by a committee composed of Williams, Otto J. Lieber, Leo O. Schubart, the Rev. Samuel Roth and S. M. Pickard.

W. W. Schalk, manager of the Jandrey company will be the principal speaker at the banquet, which also will be in the form of a boss' dinner. Schalk will talk on "The Place of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Community." Williams also will talk following the presentation of the award.

Menasha Library Releases Include New Safety Volume

Menasha--Because of the automobile death toll in Winnebago county, "Seven Roads to Safety," one of 19 new books released at Elisha D. Smith library, is particularly pertinent. The volume is by Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Automotive Safety foundation, and details a seven-point program of safety administration being undertaken by safety organizations throughout the country.

The Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, scientist and explorer of Alaska's glaciers and volcanic regions widely known as the "Glacier Priest," is the author of two books donated to the library by the Neenah Lions club. The club is sponsoring Father Hubbard's lecture appearance in the Twin Cities Feb. 5. The books are "Mush. You Malesmuts!" and "Cradle of the Storms."

"Pilgrim Places of North America" by Ralph and Henry Woods is a review of 135 Catholic shrines and pilgrimage places, selected according to spiritual significance, historical interest and exceptional beauty rather than current popularity. Wisconsin's Holy Hill and the shrine at Robinsonville are included in the volume.

Books on Business -- Five new publications in the field of business have been added to the library collection. They are "How to Keep Accounts and Prepare Statements" by Earl Saliers, "How to File Business Papers and Records" by Allen Chaffee, "Budgeting" by Prior Sinclair, "Public Relations for Business" by Milton Wright, and "The Road to Anywhere: Opportunities in Secretarial Work" by Frances Maule.

A new biography of the Strauss family, "Johann Strauss, Father and Son" by H. E. Jacob also is to be released. Of particular interest among the fiction is George Shuster's "Look Away!" Southern Wisconsin of Civil war days furnishes the background for the story.

Because of the popularity already won by their authors in previous books, four new volumes should be favorites. They include "Adventure in Washington," a press correspondent story by Leonard Ross; Janet Taylor Caldwell's "The Eagles Gather" which continues the story of the Bouchard family, munition manufacturers; "Royal Highness," a reissue of the book by Thomas Mann, and "Let the People Sing" by J. B. Priestley.

Best selling rank already has been won by Robert Nannie's new book, "Portrait of Jennie." For the mystery fans there will be "The North Meet Murder" by Frances Lockridge and "Over My Dead Body" by Rex Stout. William Leedy Raine has contributed another volume in his long list of westerns in "Riders of Buck River."

Drunken Drivers Fined at Menasha

Two Men, Arrested After Accidents, Plead Guilty to Charge

Menasha--Two men were fined $50 and costs each when they pleaded guilty of drunken driving on arraignment before Justice of the Peace Ray J. Fink Monday night. They are Harold Yaggie, 32, Niagara Falls, New York, and Albert Bratz, 60, 307 Madison street, Menasha.

Both men were arrested by Menasha police after cars they were driving were involved in accidents over the weekend. Bratz was arrested after his car collided with a machine driven by Don Green, 1418 S. Jefferson street, Appleton, at the intersection of Plank road and London street at 11:25 Saturday night. Both cars were damaged in the collision.

Yaggie was arrested after his car was involved in a collision with one driven by Walter Breaker, 430 E. Franklin avenue, Neenah, on Racine street near Sixth street at 1:30 Sunday morning. Breaker started to pass a car ahead of him and the accident occurred when Yaggie attempted to pass Breaker at the same time, police said. Both cars were damaged.

The arrests brought the total for drunken driving to four in Menasha during January.

Submits 3 Possible Building Programs For Neenah Church

Neenah--Three possible building programs for First Presbyterian church were submitted to the congregation Sunday morning during the 10:30 service by the Rev. W. R. Courtenay, following a resume of the history of First Presbyterian church and the building necessities during recent years.

Members were asked to sign their preference of the possible proposals and a congregational meeting in the near future at which a vote will be taken is planned.

The first proposal involves selling the present church and building a new church on a new location. The second proposal includes a 10-year building program and the third is a remodeling plan for the present church.

Girl Slightly Injured in Traffic Collision

Neenah--Jean Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Humphrey, 112 Broad street, Menasha, was injured slightly in a traffic accident Monday afternoon at Church and Caroline streets, Neenah police reported.

Jean, who received a slight cut on her head, was riding in a truck driven by her father which was involved in a collision with an automobile driven by Willis Clark, route 3, Neenah. The front end of the automobile, which was going south on Church street, and the right side of the truck, which was traveling west on Caroline street, were damaged badly. Both drivers told police they were unable to stop because of slippery streets.

Neenah Motorist Fined For Reckless Driving

Neenah -- Clyde Coenen, Spring road, Neenah, was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty of reckless driving when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Elmer H. Radtke Monday afternoon. The defendant was arrested by Neenah Police Sunday night on Main street.

Protestant Pastors Challenge Statement That Only One-Third Of Membership Attends Church

BY CHARLOTTE MCINTYRE

Neenah--Dr. Frederick K. Stamm, radio minister for the Federal Council of Churches, in a recent article, stated in part "more than half our population belongs to the church, but no Protestant denomination dares claim that more than a third of its membership attends any given service except on Christmas and Easter."

The Post-Crescent has had occasion to use pastors' reports in annual congregational meeting articles during the last two months and those reports indicate that Protestant churches in the Twin Cities not only dare claim that more than a third of the membership attends services but the facts are incorporated in the minutes of annual meetings.

A survey of the pastors of the nine Neenah and three Menasha Protestant churches during the last few days confirm these reports. It is interesting to note that in the survey, membership of churches is based on baptized as well as communicant membership. Communicant membership, for the most part does not include the children in the younger age levels.

The Rev. Arnold Anderson, pastor of Our Saviour's English Lutheran church, approximated his church membership between 300 and 350 (which figures include the children. The average Sunday attendance is 200).

Methodist figures -- The average attendance of First Methodist church services is 250 according to the Rev. William A. Riggs. The membership is listed at about 500.

It might be pointed out at this time that while the Christmas and Easter services attendance is included in the average, so is the summer attendance--which is small because of vacations.

The service attendance of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, of which the Rev. Samuel H. Roth is pastor, is about 725 inclusive of the children. The membership is about 1371 exclusive of infants and cradle roll children who do not attend church.

The Rev. E. C. Kollath, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church, is conservative in his approximate figures on average attendance. The Rev. Mr. Kollath believes that about one third of the total membership of 500 which includes the children who are confirmands attend church on Sunday, agreeing in part with Dr. Stamm's statement.

More Than Half -- Even though services of First Evangelical church are held in the Brigade building rather than in the church due to the remodeling, the average attendance of the parish is about 150, more than one half the total membership which is 230. The Rev. Roy W. Berg is minister.

Trinity Lutheran church of Menasha has a baptized membership of 645 and a communicant membership of 447. The yearly average in English Lutheran services is 318. The Rev. Paul G. Wittenborn, pastor of the First Fundamental church of Neenah and executive vice president of the National organization of Fundamental churches, reports that his organization refuted Dr. Stamm's statement in an article which appeared in the New York Times since the Fundamental church record attendance in excess of membership in all of its 3200 churches. The membership of the Neenah church is 130 but the average attendance approximates 140.

Whiting Memorial Baptist church has an average attendance which is one half of its membership. The Rev. W. L. Harms, pastor, stated that the membership is 200 and the average Sunday attendance is 110.

First Congregational church of Menasha has membership of 351 and its average attendance again shows that more than half the membership attends worship Sunday mornings. The average attendance is 182. The Rev. Gerald C. Churchill is pastor.

The Rev. Albert A. Chambers, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church, has records which show 500 baptized members in St. Thomas church including 300 confirmed members. The average attendance at the three Sunday services, holy communion, church school and morning prayer and sermon, is 200, again more than half of the membership attending worship services.

Neenah Women Lose In Two Pin Matches

Neenah -- Gold Label women bowlers of Neenah dropped two matches to men's outfits this weekend at Neenah alleys.

The women's quintet lost to Bacon's Alleys, Antigo, by 25 pins and to Eddie's Specials, Neenah, by 19 pins. In the former match, the women drilled a 2,403 total against Antigo's 2,423 series. G. Longhuster was high with a 534. In the latter match, the women racked up 2,455 series to the Special's 2,477. P. Hornke paced the women with a 554 total and C. Munsche led the men with a 516 series.

Owl Tavern, Neenah, lost to Dri Gas by 39 pins in another bowling match. J. Muench paced the Tavern five with a 604 total, while Schomborg was high scorer with a 619. The Tavern hit a 2,690 total and Dri Gas spilled a 2,729 series.

In another match, Haase Klink and Rhoades, Neenah, lost to Schriber's, Oshkosh, by 107 pins. Haase paced the Neenah outfit with a 619 series, while Nigl, Oshkosh, hit a 640 total. Neenah spilled a 2,725 total and Oshkosh counted a 2,832 series.

U. S. Should Work On Own Problems, Neenah Club Told

Fight in Europe Is for Security of Empires, Professor Says

Neenah—Peculiarities of the European conflict, which he termed "war of nerves" were outlined by Professor Donald M. DuShane of Lawrence college in a talk at the noon meeting of the Neenah club Monday at the club rooms.

Among the peculiarities listed by the professor were failures of declarations of war, comparatively few number of casualties, the use of the technique of disintegration, the peculiar peace during the 1920s, and '30s, lack of prosecution of the war, no war boom and the fake issues.

"No one seems to want to prosecute very hard," DuShane declared. "Mussolini doesn't want any part of it, and Hitler, for a man who made so much noise only a short time ago, is pretty quiet now, and Stalin would love to back out but can't and cannot go forward, while Chamberlain, who never had a desire for war, got into it because he made a promise, couldn't back out of it, and Hitler was too stupid to see that he meant it."

Ought to be Realists
"For the United States, we ought to be realists and think of our self interest, solving our own problems before trying to solve the problems of the rest of the world," DuShane said.

"I'm not trying to smear the Allied war aims, but the democracies aren't fighting the dictatorships to preserve democracy and vice versa, they are fighting for the security of their empires. It isn't an ideological war, it is a war of self interest, like all other wars."

In the war between England-France and Germany, fewer soldiers have been killed than in the English blackouts and the German railroad wrecks, he said. The technique of disintegration, such as in Czechoslovakia, is in vogue, and if Europe bores the Americas, it will be through disintegration so as not to invoke the Monroe doctrine. It'll be South Americans fighting South Americans in revolutions.

It is much more difficult to stage a revolution today than it was 150 years ago when a group of farmers were a match against the British, but now with mechanization of an army, rifles and pistols can't compete against tanks and machine guns and cannons. If there is to be a German revolution, it will have to be within the army.

There has been a war of nerves since the 1918 armistice, and it has been a war in every respect except in a military way, DuShane stated.

ARE THE BARBARIANS ON THE MOVE?

What relation to the earlier history of humanity is there in the attempt of the Russian hordes to break their bounds and spread all over the world?

The intelligent, aye the beautiful, civilization of Greece was hacked and broken by barbarians moving in even while philosophers were discussing the purest forms of democracy.

The Roman civilization that reached a pinnacle far out of sight in comparison to the rest of the world was toppled off its foundation by another barbaric movement, sometimes loosely called the "Goths and Vandals."

But the question that no historian can satisfactorily answer is whether the Greeks didn't deserve to be crushed and whether the corruption of the Roman empire wasn't in itself an invitation to the gloating savages to move in.

One of the really hellish things about civilization is that it so often softens. Ease makes flabby muscles. Contentment makes an inert mind.

But Greece and Rome even while decadence was well on its way had public men who warned of the black clouds ahead. So have we public men who are warning. But will the warning be heeded any more than those leaders in the Greece and Rome of long ago failed to head off the crowd from stampeding toward the soft and easy life, and the rotten life, too.

In the first century of the Christian era a Roman, Tacitus by name, with the unerring precision of an archer, pointed to all the symptoms of decay that were making his nation unworthy of its past and its people unworthy of their sires. Tacitus went so far as to outline the immediate menace to Rome. He wrote a treatise on the Teutonic tribes to the north. He told of their unrefined habits. He pointed to their rude and uncouth manners. He knew that it was these things that made the Roman gentlemen of the day laugh in derision at them simply because they were crude. But Tacitus went much further than the mere veneer of gentility or charm in men's habits or associations. He insisted that the Teutons had manhood and that it was manhood which really built great civilizations, in fact had built the Roman civilization which was then rotting away. And then he showed that every Roman who indicated a single spark of the lusty willingness to work of his forebears was kicked aside by a purple dressed tyrant who wished to listen only to the perfumed breath of the fawners.

Are we in America now showing any of the symptoms that brought Rome and Greece low? It may be well to detail those symptoms. The historian describes them generally as including (1) centralization of power, (2) the creation of great hordes of sycophants dependent upon the state for support, (3) the casting aside or purging of those who dare to raise their voice in criticism, (4) the endless squanderings of wealth upon what was called in Rome the Praetorian army, the favorites of the rulers, (5) the building of vast and needless edifices and finally (6) the drift toward creating in a ruler the myth of superhuman qualities while showering opposition with venom and vengeance.

We have many thousands, perhaps millions, of people in this country with leanings toward Red or Fascist ideologies who are today intent upon dragging our institutions down into the dust. No matter now that their entire purpose is transparent to the careful looker who will see in their plans merely an effort to trade oily servility for the stout security one may obtain for himself by effort. The real question is whether or not the democracies, ourselves included, have become so softened that those who have been forced to live hard or dangerous lives can overcome them. And another question is whether those under totalitarian governments today have the real manhood that is required to subdue and rule those who have softened themselves with laziness, easy living and profligacy.

Certainly we have in the last six years, though improving some of our instruments of government in substantial form, departed nevertheless far from the safety of rugged manhood in following dangerous courses of providing corn and circus for the mob, a centralized form of government at Washington, a great and voracious army that spends its time cating out of the public treasury when it isn't cheering those who opened the door for it and finally the shaky promise of security in old age even as the treasury is being looted.

Are we about to repeat the somber tale of Rome that listened to Tacitus, read his articles, observed his points and then heedlessly followed the bubbling, babbling crowd to destruction?

CIVIL SERVICE IN THE COUNTIES

Officials of the state department of public welfare, representatives of the federal social security board, and staff members of the state bureau of personnel are working out details of an important new law recently enacted by congress and the state legislature, a law which requires all employees in county pension departments to be employed on a merit basis.

Now that sounds like progress. It seems to imply that the public is going to have assurance of the best possible personnel in an increasingly important field of welfare administration. But a reexamination will show something else, that it is another example of a gradual, but none the less relentless centralization of government authority, a subtle invasion of still another sphere of local government by Madison and Washington.

For that statute was not applied in Wisconsin because of local inspiration. It was adopted because of the coercive power of the federal government, a power growing out of its gigantic expenditures and financial resources.

State and federal governments already have a host of mandatory requirements for the administration of the social security aid program in the localities. The counties are told who is to get a pension, how much, and when. They are required to raise a substantial share of the funds, to spend them upon instructions from Madison and Washington. (And Madison takes orders from Washington.) Now the counties will be told who to hire in their pension departments, how much they will be paid, how much vacation they will receive, when they can be dismissed, and other matters heretofore considered to be the proper function of local officials.

As far as effective participation in the social security program goes, the counties will have but one right; to raise about $5,000,000 yearly as their share of the old age pension cost, and a proportionate amount for other phases of the program. State and federal governments will manage the rest.

The motivation of the new law is obvious enough. State and federal governments felt that since they are contributing a major portion of the funds to finance the aid program, they ought also to have a voice in the administration of that program in the localities. But this statute implies the elimination of the last effective local participation in the program, the last remaining influence of local officials in an expenditure which is a heavy drain on budgets for which they are responsible to their constituents. The logical conclusion and implication, therefore, would be for the state and federal governments also to assume complete financial responsibility for the programs.

No one objects to extending the civil service system to local governments, where it is practicable to do so. Every intelligent citizen and taxpayer wants merit in public office. But it is generally felt that local inauguration of the merit plan is more effective and satisfactory than compulsion for such action from above.

The intent of the new law becomes even more evident when it is remembered that in its preliminary application it is hardly an assurance of a merit system after all. Under the law it will be possible for an incumbent pension worker to get a grade of 70—or a bare passing mark—in the examination, and yet be retained in preference to other candidates who won grades of 95 or 100 in aptitude, experience, and education. That can scarcely be called a merit system.

But the entering wedge is provided. Eventually the control of the pension departments will be held tightly in the hands of state and federal officialdom, although county governments will be allowed to raise taxes for this outside bureaucracy's payrolls. The lure of federal and state financial aids is again strong enough to abrogate home rule in yet another field of local government.

QUALITY OVER QUANTITY

It's not the quantity but the quality of sleep that determines its benefits. So says a report just made to the American association for the Advancement of Science. Six hours of "high quality" slumber will make one feel better than eight hours of restless sleep. Furthermore, "a smaller amount of regularly scheduled sleep is better than a larger amount of irregular sleep." Personal experience confirms this scientific announcement.

And by another view a still broader meaning may be drawn from it that is applicable to almost any human experience. For instance, isn't it true that the final judgment is based not on how long one lives but on how he lives?

A Verse for Today

MY HOUSE
If the staunch walls of my warm house
Could reach to shelter those
Who lie where the cold winds carouse
And the pale moonlight glows;
If that could be, I would feel warm,
And less concerned with war's alarm.
If the roof arching over me
Could spread across the world,

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
(Editor's Note: One of the Merry-Go-Rounders, a close friend of Senator William E. Borah, today tells a personal story.)

Washington—The senate just doesn't seem the same without Senator Borah.
He was the first leader I came to know intimately as a cub Washington reporter 15 years ago, and I saw him last the day before his fatal accident. I think I am the last newsman he talked to.

It was late in the afternoon. I knew that the president's message on the Finnish loan was due the next day, and I dropped into Borah's office to get his views. Wrapped in an army blanket, he was lying on a couch, reading an article on trade treaties. He motioned me to a chair, which I pulled up near him. On the marble mantle directly over him was a striking new photograph of himself which he liked very much.

Borah looked well, but frail, and recalling that during the Christmas holiday he had told me he was thinking of taking Mrs. Borah south, I said, "What about your trip?"

"I guess that's off, Robert," he replied. "Mrs. Borah won't stay if I don't, and I can't."
"Why not? Things aren't so active now. A few weeks of warm weather and sunshine would do you a lot of good."

"Yes, but I can't leave. Those trade treaties are up and I've got to be on hand to keep an eye on developments. It's a close fight and we can't take any chances. I would like a little rest, but I feel it's my duty to stay on the job and oppose this act."

"What about this Finnish loan?" I asked.
"That's a very distressing dilemma for me, Robert," he said. "My heart goes out to those gallant people, but at the same time I have grave misgivings about lending money to anyone in Europe. Once we let down the bars we can't foresee what it may lead to. We must keep out of that mess regardless of our personal sympathies."

1936 Dilemma

I remember another time when he was in a dilemma. It was in 1936.

That spring, at the age of 71 and for the first time in his long career, he decided to make a serious try for the presidency. There was considerable popular response, but the machine politicians were against him. He went to the Cleveland convention empty-handed—and he knew it.

The night Herbert Hoover made his speech—which he secretly hoped would stampede the delegates—I encountered Borah leaving his hotel. It was past midnight, hot and sticky.

"Come along, Robert, and walk with me," he said. "It's cooler out here."

So we walked about the deserted streets and he talked about Hoover, the convention, and Alf Landon.

"They'll nominate Landon tomorrow," he said. "The stage is all set. Hoover tried to run away with the convention tonight, but they don't want any of him. It will be Landon and Knox, you mark my word."

"And then what are you going to do, Senator?"

"I don't know. I'll wait and see what Landon says. But what I'm wondering is what can he say. He knows nothing about national or foreign affairs. I am told he is a nice gentleman, but the country needs more than that in the White House these times. I don't want to prejudice Landon. I shall hear him out, but I have a strong hunch I will not support him."

Borah's premonition was right. Three months later I spent a day with him in Boise as he campaigned for his sixth senatorial term. We had a long talk that night in his room before he retired. I remarked that I hadn't heard him say a word during the day about Landon.

"And I don't intend to say anything about him," Borah replied quietly. "I am not for him."

"Are you for Roosevelt?"
"Well, Robert," he said, "I've got a lot of Democratic friends in Idaho and I think they know where I stand." And then with a gentle smile he added, "That's a pretty good news story, isn't it?"

It certainly was. It was the big scoop of the campaign.

All the New Deal supreme court justices attended the White House ceremony when Justice Frank Murphy took the oath of office. As the president shook Murphy's hand he observed solemnly:

"Frank, I've got it all fixed up for you: The sophomores on the court have promised me that they won't haze the freshman."

White House Receptions

The White House social list is not as exclusive as you might suppose. If you want to be on the list, you don't have to wait to be chosen. All you've got to do is to drive up to the front door and, in effect, tell 'em you want an invitation.

This is strictly according to the rules of protocol. Nothing brash about it. You come up to the door and hand your cards to one of the White House guards, as if you were going to pay a call. In fact, this amounts to paying a call. And in return, you will get an invitation to a tea, a musicale, or a garden party.

The mechanics of the business are like this: The guard passes your cards to the footman, who clips them together and puts them in a basket inside the door. Secretaries make up a list from them, hoping you have not forgotten to scribble your address on the card so they will know where to send the invitation.

The list goes to Mrs. James M. Hahn, efficient social secretary of the White House, who does a little culling of the names she and associates cannot identify. Then the invitations go out. You have in effect asked for an invitation—and got it.

Of course, the invitation will not be for an evening reception, for which the lists are more official and exclusive. To rate a reception, you have to be a diplomat, a member of congress, a departmental executive, a high ranking officer of the Army or Navy (officers below the rank of lieutenant colonel and commander are excluded), or, as a last chance, a member of the press.

On a still higher plane of exclusiveness are White House dinners. Formal dinners are given in the state dining-room for visiting rulers, such as the King and Queen of England; and others, less formal, to which an odd miscellany of people are invited—church dignitaries, newspaper editors, social planners, and campaign contributors.

Most intimate Roosevelt dinners are held in the family dining-room, especially the Sunday evening suppers, where Mrs. Roosevelt prepares scrambled eggs in a chafing dish for people she can call by their first names—Henry and Eleanor Morgenthau, Henry and Ilo Wallace, Caroline O'Day, Sam Rosenman, Oscar Chapman, "Missy" LeHand.

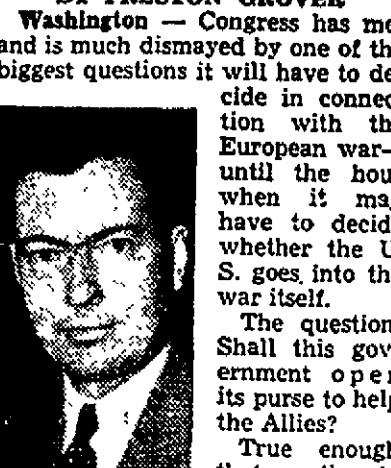

Intimate or otherwise, there are always guests at the White House. If the President and Mrs. Roosevelt should find themselves alone at the dinner table, they would scarcely know how to behave.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Congress has met and is much dismayed by one of the biggest questions it will have to decide in connection with the European war: until the hour when it may have to decide whether the U. S. goes into the war itself.

The question: Shall this government open its purse to help the Allies?
True enough that question, in just so many words, has not been put either before the Congress or the country at large.

Instead it has arisen in the form of the issue over the loan to Finland. Yet every word and act of congressional leaders discloses how they recognize it.

Senator George of Georgia made the most daring declaration of the issue. He told the senate bluntly that if this country is going to lend money to nations at war it ought to take the responsibility itself and not pass it on to Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator.

His words sounded strangely like those of William Jennings Bryan when, as secretary of state during the early months of the World war and prior to U. S. entry, Bryan cautioned against lending money to the belligerents. In a private message, not published until years later, he told President Wilson that money was "the greatest contraband of all," because it controlled all other contrabands.

Allied Pressure?

Speaking of the proposed loan to Finland, Senator George said:

"It is no different, in a sound basis of international law, than if we sent a battleship to Finland."
"If we lift the restrictions in the Neutrality act," he said, "it is easy to see we have destroyed the very heart of the Neutrality act."

The hour approaches when the war between Germany and France and England becomes more acute and the pressure becomes more intense to break down the restrictions on extending credit.

It is a safe bet that England and France already are putting the bee on the administration officials to shake down the restrictions on credit. That is, assuming that their course in this war is running parallel to their course in the last one. These things are not done boldly or bluntnly but both sides understand what is afoot.

It was more than a year before the walls broke down last time, although there were minor crumbling within a few months. But after much bickering and filling, the treasury permitted Britain and France to float a half-billion dollar public loan in this country in October, 1915. That was a year and a quarter after the war started. They were short of ready cash and such bank credit as they could reach was about used up.

Resources of England and France are not greatly different this time. Now, as before, they are having to pay cash for what they buy over here. Here Alcoa, Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer, has said this is going to be the most expensive war England has known. He didn't exclude the last war.

Currently the senate is agitated over whether it can make a loan to Finland without seeming to. Already the Export-Import bank has made a $10,000,000 loan to a Finnish corporation. By a narrow margin it perhaps escapes being a loan directly to the Finnish government. Also the strings tied to it which prohibit its use for buying arms and implements of war. President Roosevelt in a letter to the congress disclosed he was going little farther in that direction without congressional sanction, which he asked.

Technically the loans are proposed on the assumption that they are to promote export of excess Yankee groceries and manufactures, but the senate went officially on record as recognizing that bigger fish than that were in the pond. The letter which the various bills concerned with financing and currency were sent to the bank in compliance with the technical front. But, by agreement, they will go thereafter to the foreign relations committee where only one question will be at issue:

"Do we, or don't we?"

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Important sections of the Wisconsin Republican party organization are heading for a serious clash over the issue of sending untrained or instructed delegates to the national party convention next summer.

Typical of the feelings already aroused in the matter is the letter recently sent by Elmer Honkamp, Eighth district leader, to Dr. Gullickson of the state committee, in which Gullickson was warned in strong words against allowing the forthcoming mid-winter convention to become a rally for Governor Heil and his untrained delegate boom.

Honkamp expressed a suspicion which is in many Republicans' minds today, a suspicion which amounts almost to a conviction in the minds of some of the Vandenberg and Dewey boosters, that Heil and his friends will persuade the convention to endorse the idea of an untrained slate. Otherwise why should the Republicans be holding a convention in the dead of winter, when the party leaders at two conferences last fall decided against such a meeting, he asks?

DIVIDEND APPEAL

It is now fairly certain that if the Republican administration is re-elected next November (and Governor Heil has practically announced his candidacy) the 1941 legislature will have before it an administration bill for the repeal of the privilege dividend tax, or what remains of it after last week's court decision.

The veil circle never believed in the tax, but as Charles McKeown, the governor's shrewd financial advisor, is wont to observe: "Necessity knows no master."

The Republican business administration is now in the position of levying what is widely considered an unfair tax on corporations within the state, while those outside the state go free, even though they do a big business in Wisconsin.

Even more important, budget men can no longer point to the dividend tax as a heavy revenue producer. For about a million dollars a year, or about three per cent of the state budget, "it is not worth the aggravation" one of Heil's associates was heard to comment the other day.

CONSERVATIVE U.

The appearance of Dean Scott H. Goodnight of the state university before a radio microphone the other night with a speech in which he minimized the Communist influence at the state school is another evidence of a trend which Capitol observers have noted on the campus during the administration of President Clarence A. Dykstra.

In a quiet way, Dykstra is striving to convince the state that the idea of impression that the campus was overrun with crackpots and radicals—an impression assiduously fostered by various politicians in the last decade—is no longer accurate, if it ever was.

Of course the lunatic fringe at the university was never numerically strong, but for years it was exceedingly noisy. Today, whether because of Dykstra's policy or other factors, the campus is quiet. While there was a time when young men boasted of their affiliations with Communist organizations and when they were occasionally ducked in the cold waters of Lake Mendota, there are few who now admit their affiliations.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

PNEUMONIA CARRIERS

Elect a doctor to office in the medical society or employ him in an editorial or other capacity in the office of publication of the medical society's organ, and he readily assumes that it is his province to teach other doctors how to practice medicine.

New York State Medical Society distributes to doctors a nine-page outline for a talk on pneumonia, from which I quote:

"Many normal people carry virulent pneumococci in their nose and throat. Persons in contact with these diseases (of pneumonia) frequently carry the same type of pneumococcus that is causing the disease in the patient."

"These carriers spread the germs from person to person through coughing, sneezing, kissing and even by talking and just breathing into the air. These are transmitted to other people in close contact with the carrier."

There it is at last, old timers, straight from the throne. Pneumonia may be spread by conversational spray. It has been a long struggle to get that vital fact acknowledged by the quaint health authorities. They now include talking with sneezing, coughing and kissing as modes of infection with respiratory disease shows the power of the press, the lay press, the public prints.

The outline for talk on pneumonia further enlightens the plodding practitioner, scheduled for a talk at the lunch club, on the right answer for a familiar question, to wit, if so many people are carriers of pneumonia germs, why doesn't every one get the disease? To that the doctor should smile indulgently and explain that "two factors are believed to be necessary in order to develop pneumonia—exposure to virulent germ and a susceptible state, that is, lowered resistance."

Who believes such twaddle the doctor, of course, need not reveal—that is why the furtive making of the verb believe is used. No matter—it is believed generally suffices to silence the dimwit who puts such a question. And the resistance thing, heaven forbid that we try to discuss that intelligently. Who knows what "resistance" means, apart from immunity? Certainly not the bright young man of the New York State Medical Society who got up the outline for a talk on pneumonia.

There is a great deal of doubt, at least in my mind, that "pneumonia carriers" are common, if indeed they are concerned at all in the spread of pneumonia. It is quite conceivable that a nurse or a member of the family taking care of a pneumonia patient might possibly carry the germs to a third person, but the evidence that this happens is highly circumstantial and unconvincing.

The real hazard to guard against is the ba—the bird who insists on coming to school, to work, to church, to the theater or club or approaching within conversational range when he has what he lightly passes off on you as a "cold." You never know, my friends, what the ba-bird has peppered you with, until the infective has had time to develop. It is as likely to be pneumonia as it is to be coryza or the flu.

a medicine and will not cure run down condition but if used every day as drinking water it will maintain normal vigor and it makes other alkalizing media unnecessary.

Ans.—Well, I'll tell you, brother, if you promise not to let it go any further. Whenever anybody begins to chatter about alkalinity or acidosis I say uh-huh and do-tell and let my mind dwell on the psychology I shall use in my next game of lawn bowls. My notion of a gullible geek is one who buys water when perfectly pure drinking water may be had for nothing out of the kitchen faucet.

So we don't have any more winter like we had when you were a boy, eh? Well, the fellow who's been making that crack for years is ready to apologize. We're not only having an old-fashioned winter, but it's taking in more territory. Even our most famous tropical resorts are in red flannels.

The whole south, with mighty few exceptions, is in mittens, and Miami is having temperatures close to freezing, with press agents' teeth chattering so they can't deny it. A wire from there today said there was such a run on electric heaters that you couldn't buy one in the whole area, even at a premium.

When you read that its 32 at New Orleans, 25 at Pensacola, 15 at Atlanta, and 40 at Miami you're getting a winter older-fashioned than the old-fashioned ones.

The whole world's "fizzed" up. Norway is putting overcoats on cows, but shucks, that's nothing. Malone, N. Y. reports a bull in a raccoon raglan; Bangor, Maine, says horses are wearing mufflers and I hear that mules down Georgia way are working in

Writer Predicts Battle Royal on Nomination Rules

Change Would Make It Easier to Block Third-Term Move

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—One of the biggest political contests in the year 1940 will come not alone in connection with the nomination of a presidential candidate at the Democratic National convention, but with respect to the abolition of the so-called "unit" rule whereby the majority within a state casts the ballot for the whole state.

Although President Roosevelt was renominated virtually by acclamation at the 1936 convention, the New Deal strategists secured the repeal of the historic two-thirds rule whereby 66 2/3 per cent of the delegates voting were required to make a nomination. Each convention makes its own rules, and if the delegates should wish to do so they can this year reimpose the two-thirds rule. A simple motion by a majority vote to the effect that the rules of the 1932 convention shall prevail is all that is necessary in order to bring the two-thirds rule back.

The principal debate nowadays about the two-thirds rule is that persons who favored its abolition expected that along with it would go the so-called unit rule. Thus it has been possible in the past for a relatively small group of delegates to exercise a majority within certain states and thereby establish a sufficient bloc of votes by the unit rule as to prevent the nomination of a particular opponent against whom forces were joined.

Paved Way for Fight
The general feeling among those who have discussed the issue in the past, has been that if the rule requiring that there be two-thirds of the votes cast in order to make a nomination were repealed, so also should the unit rule go by the boards. The fact that the administration forces at the 1936 convention repealed the two-thirds rule, but didn't abolish the unit rule has paved the way for a fight at the 1940 convention.

The significance of these rules is that if any considerable number of delegates want to block a third-term nomination they can do so, much more easily with a two-thirds requirement than they could if only a 51 per cent vote is required to make a nomination. Likewise, if there is a considerable opposition here and there within a given state to prevent a third-term nomination, the abolition of the unit rule would permit such a minority to have its votes tallied in the total.

Individual states react differently to the unit rule. Some forbid it or send their delegates instructed to cast their ballots as individuals instead of as a unit. But there has been enough unit rule voting to wipe out the minority view.

If the 1932 election rules were to prevail, the renomination of President Roosevelt by means of the "draft" would be a difficult thing for the New Deal enthusiasts to achieve. For there are enough states already which either have staunch support ready for favorite sons or are inclined to send their delegates "uninstructed" so as to make more than the necessary one-third bloc which would prevent a nomination.

Southern States
The southern states, in particular, have held fast heretofore to the two-thirds rule and the unit rule. They have done so because the Democratic party has had its stronghold in the south, and by reason of long service in congress, many senators and representatives have been in the forefront of the delegations sent to the conventions. These southern Democrats through the two-thirds rule have been able to exercise a veto power on the nominee by means of a vote or two in excess of the one-third needed to block a nomination. The south has stood fast for the unit rule for the same reason.

Conditions have changed somewhat with the elimination of the two-thirds rule. If the unit rule is abolished, there are many states in the north as well as the south where minority sentiment will be registered against a third-term drive. Hence the question of what rules are to apply at the Democratic National convention is already being talked about as likely to precipitate, at the very outset of the convention, a battle royal.

The Republican National convention has for years nominated by a simple majority vote of the delegates, with the unit rule being applied by state delegations only in rare instances.

The theory that a majority of the delegates should do the nominating is sound, but it is a denial of minority expression to invoke the unit rule. This is because in a national convention the true choice is that of the majority of the delegates of the entire convention rather than a candidate chosen by perhaps a

Annular Eclipse of Sun to Shadow Part of U. S. April 7

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
New York—An annular, or ring, eclipse of the sun will sweep across the southern United States April 7 from west Texas to Florida, traveling eastward.

It will shadow part of the United States up to the Alaskan southern border. In Canada, the part-shadow will reach to the Arctic circle.

An annular eclipse is so named because the rim of the sun will show in a narrow ring of light all around the dark moon. This is due to the fact the moon is a little too far away for its bulk to cover the sun completely.

While astronomers can make only a few studies in this kind of eclipse, the spectacle for the public is something that comes to most persons only once in a lifetime, and many never see it. This eclipse lasts six minutes, much longer than most total eclipses. During that time, the moon will cover 93 per cent of the sun's surface.

Exact positions have not yet been predicted, but popular astronomy gives the main course. The central shadow will enter southern California from the Pacific ocean about 1 p. m., Pacific time. Chihuahua, Mexico, seems to be at dead center of the path.

San Antonio, Texas; Baton Rouge and New Orleans, La.; Pensacola, Tallahassee and Jacksonville, Fla., all are near the southern edge of the ring shadow and most of them probably inside this path.

The width of the path is equal to about the distance from Jacksonville to Savannah, Ga., and these two cities are close to the edges as the shadow passes out into the Atlantic.

The approximate time for this ring shadow, which is the same also for the partial shadow over the rest of the United States and Canada is about 3:30 p. m., central time.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.
To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water in a heavy saucepan. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiac, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

History May Show Borah Was More Realistic Than Critics

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
St. Louis—Senator Borah, as leader of American isolationism, was regarded as unrealistic by most of his learned critics. They think that he always refused to face the reality of America's position in the world. Among self-appointed parlor experts in international affairs, it was quite the thing to sneer at Senator Borah as a rough-hewn inlander, honest enough but slightly on the ignorant side in international matters. Recently President Roosevelt spoke mockingly of isolationists as ostriches. Senator Borah was the king ostrich.

Possibly history will show Senator Borah—who actually always was a most tolerant and philosophical student—to have been more realistic than his critics. Possibly it is his critics who are the theorists, who fail to face the realities of the world. One of these critics, Henry L. Stimson, as secretary of state under Hoover, proposed stern pressure against Japan when she went into Manchuria. Mr. Stimson had the right idea. But the British ran out on him. They had other entangling commitments which held them back. Mr. Stimson, the interventionist, had not been realistic enough to foresee that and was bitterly disappointed at the British failure to co-operate in smashing this early piece of aggression.

Senator Borah had a good deal to do with persuading the senate to reject the treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations. He saw in the treaty only a trouble-breeding arrangement.

He regarded the league as a hypocritical alliance of visitors to enforce the treaty. He saw the whole operation saturated in European politics and he wanted the United States to have none of it.

Lord Lothian Wouldn't Condone Conduct of Allies
Borah was right. Even Lord Lothian, in his recent Chicago address, refused to condone the conduct of the allies since 1918. So say that we could have forced them to have used better judgment had we been in the league is to say that we would have spent the last 20 years bucking British and French politicians at Geneva. We should have been constantly up to our necks in the details of European politics. That was a reforming job which only an idealist, not a realist like Borah, dared to recommend for the United States.

Senator Borah was never vindictive nor demagogic about his desire for a minimum of political involvement in Europe. He fought Wilson's tri-people security alliance with England and France which was signed along with the Treaty of Versailles. But when Briand sought some sort of Franco-American anti-war declaration, Senator Borah publicly urged a multilateral declaration which evolved into the Kellogg-Briand pact.

He always said he would advocate cancellation of the war debts if the debtors would agree to some kind of armament reduction program. In the early 1930s, when Premier Laval of France visited President Hoover, Senator Borah warned the French publicly that they had better begin revising the Treaty of Versailles and had better adjust the Polish corridor situation or it would be done by force.

He Was Balance Wheel of American Opinion
Senator Borah never went to Europe. He never allowed his feet to get far off the ground. I suspect that in recent years he was slightly more isolationist than public sentiment in the middle west. West of the Alleghenies, the resolve to stay out of war is as strong as ever, but a considerable group in almost every community senses some of the implications in the war which are not too happy for us in America to contemplate. Governor Landon of Kansas for instance, a younger voice of the middle-west, a rising one and an authentic one, is far less isolationist than even Senator Vandenberg. With Borah gone, sentiment may shift slightly more, because every section of the country is infinitely more world-conscious than ever before and listens avidly to discussion of international affairs.

But this interest continues to be hard-headed. No one wants to see bolshevism break through into Scandinavia and overrun the neutral democracies there. But when it is proposed to give the Finns money—or credits—people out here say let the British put up the money.

Must Serve Term for Violating Probation

Chilton—Judge Henry P. Hughes in circuit court at Chilton Friday ordered Edward Pendergast, 48, town of Harrison, Calumet county, who was placed on probation Jan. 12 after pleading guilty to an arson charge, to serve 1 to 1 1/2 years in state prison at Waupun for violation of his probation. He was taken to Waupun Saturday by Sheriff Gerhard Jensen.

Pendergast had been convicted of setting fire to the home of his son on Oct. 16 in the town of Harrison.

The British have it and the baby is nearer their doorstep than it is ours. Borah was a strong balance-wheel in American opinion. For a generation he was the great Roman of the senate. May others step forward to carry on his tradition.

Foresight Is Needed to Map Squeeze Play

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The most essential point in the planning of squeeze plays is visualization of the end position which, it is hoped, can be attained. This may sound like putting the cart before the horse but, in sober fact, it is the easiest method of approach. Let us examine a typical squeeze possibility hand and follow an expert declarer's processes.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

South West North East

1 club Pass 2 diamonds Pass

2 no trump Pass 4 no trump Pass

3 no trump Pass 7 diamonds Pass

7 no trump Pass Pass

The bidding is not recommended. I am merely reporting it as it actually took place at a certain table in a match point duplicate game. South returned to no trump in an effort to capture "top on the board." He probably thought that many teams would reach seven diamonds, and, therefore, gambled on the few extra points a no trump contract offered.

West opened the jack of spades and dummy's black ace won. A count of tricks disclosed one spade, three hearts, seven diamonds, and one club, a total of only 12. There was no possible finesse in any suit. There was a chance, of course, that the adverse hearts would drop in three leads and establish dummy's fourth heart for the 13th trick but, if this did not occur, only a squeeze play would be left.

Declarer set himself to visualize the subsequent play of the hand. He saw that if he should run off dummy's seven diamond tricks, he would be unable to return to dummy, and, thus, even if the hearts were divided 3-3, there would be no entry left in dummy to reach the established heart. Obviously, then, he had to cash the three top hearts first, which he proceeded to do. As he had feared, the hearts did not break, but he had not "shot his bolt" by any means. Now dummy's diamonds were run off until finally the end position had visualized "came out." Dummy was left with the low heart, one diamond, and one club. He, himself, had the queen of spades and two clubs. West had already been proved as the holder of the fourth heart, and the opening lead was ample testimony to the fact that the spade king was in East's hand, since West certainly would not have led from a king against seven no trump.

Thus, since one opponent was forced to hold a heart to cover dummy's heart, and the other, who had to play before declarer, was burdened with the spade stopper, a double squeeze was sure. On the lead of dummy's last diamond, East could not let go the spade king without establishing the declarer's queen—he had to let go a club. Now declarer discarded his spade queen, West, on this trick, had to hold on to his heart, and therefore was forced to blank his jack of clubs. Declarer was therefore left with two perfectly good clubs.

Strangely enough, the one opening lead that West really could not dream of making, namely, a club lead directly up to South's first bid suit, would have removed declarer's entry and made the squeeze inoperative.

My Neighbor Says—

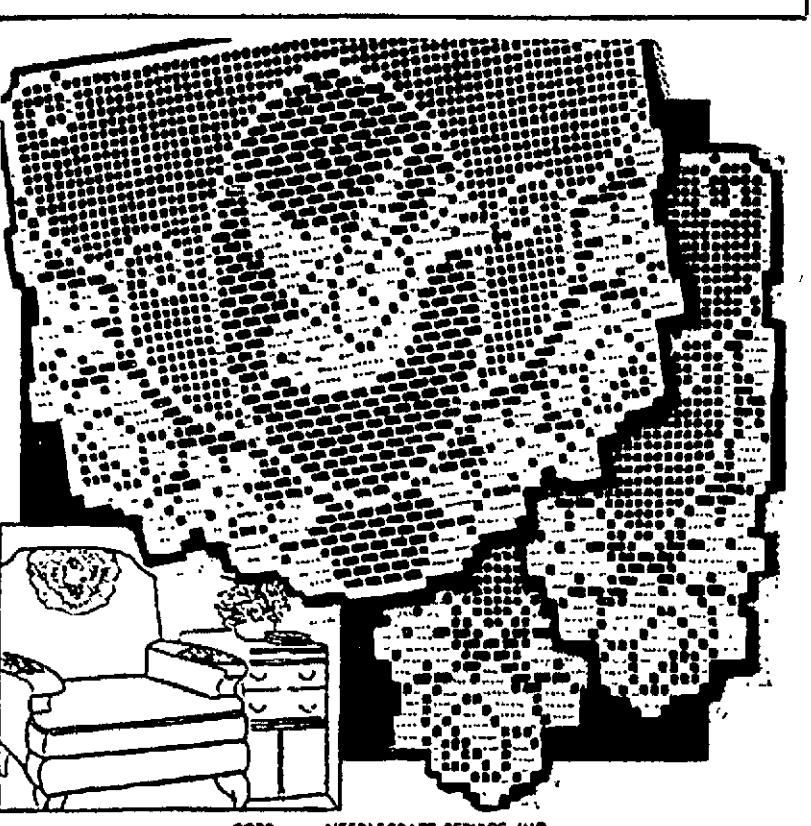

(Copyright, 1940)

It is interesting to raise cactus from seed. There seems to be only one difficulty and that is the damping-off proposition, but you can get plenty of soil disinfectants for this trouble. Never allow the soil to get completely dried out, but on the other hand, don't keep it too wet. A good mixture for your seed flat would be sand, loam and peat, with the seeds covered very lightly. A good idea is to cover the flat with a glass plate until the seeds begin to sprout.

Store lemons in a covered jar in the refrigerator. That will prevent withering and shrinkage.

Cut each grapefruit in half. Remove the core and discard the seeds. Loosen the sections and remove every other one. (Save removed sections for use in salads or cocktails.) Insert strawberries in the empty sections. Sprinkle the fruit with honey and allow it to chill. Serve either as a first course or dessert.

Woman Who Has Hurt Husband Must Wait for Wound to Heal

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—My husband is 55. I am ten years younger. We have been married for nearly twenty years and have two boys. I have been a good and helpful wife, but for the last two years I have been sick and nervous and lacking self-control; at times have gone to pieces and cried out to him: "I hate you, I wish I had never seen you." But he knew I loved him and didn't mean it. Now out of a clear sky he tells me that his love for me is dead and his attitude toward me and the children has changed completely. He only comes home to eat and sleep and spends the balance of his time at his office. Is neglectful, cold and indifferent. Doesn't talk to me about his business or let me have the key to our bank box in which I am supposed to have some stock. He says there is no other woman. Do you think my lack of self-control killed my husband's love? Is he stalling for time in order to find out his own feelings? What policy shall I pursue?

DISTRACTED WIFE.

Answer: Your policy should be to play a waiting game. Hold yourself steady. Don't add fuel to the flames of your husband's resentment at whatever it is about you that has got upon his nerves by arguments and recriminations. Don't go about with the air of a martyr and make your home such a dismal place that he will dread to come back to it. Don't tell your best friend of your troubles. And, above all, don't do anything drastic like consulting a lawyer about divorce, because that will make it the harder for him to come back to you when he gets over his mood.

If there was another woman in the case you would have reason to fear the worst, so long as all that ails him is just being tired of domesticity you need not mourn as one without hope. Gradually all that is needed to cure husbands who suffer from a hallucination that they want to be bachelors again is just to let them try it for a while.

Just why men who have been docile and domesticated and thoroughly housebroken for twenty years or so suddenly kick over the traces when they reach the dangerous age nobody knows. Maybe it is because they suddenly realize that they are getting old and they hear the call of the dining car. Maybe it is just because they are fed up with wives and children and eating the same things every day, looking at the same faces across the table and listening to the eternal family squabbles.

Maybe it is because the wife has been hard to live with. Maybe it is because the wife has been a tyrant. Maybe it is just because all of the little nagging troubles of domesticity have simply accumulated and accumulated through the years until they make a burden too heavy to be borne any longer.

Any of these may make a man lose his love for his wife or think he does, but, fortunately, love is a habit and wives are a habit, and if the wives are wise enough to just let their husbands go away for a while and get rested up they will generally come home like Mary's little lamb.

No Woman Can Supply Man's Deficiencies

Dear Miss Dix—I am 20 years old and very much in love with a boy of the same age to whom my parents strongly object. He betrayed a girl and goes on sprees sometimes for days at a time and has been out of work for months. But I feel that he has sown his wild oats and will settle down to be a true husband, and I think I can make a man of him. My mother says it is my duty to try to persuade him to marry the girl he wronged and give their baby a name. What do you think about it?

MAUD.

Answer: I think that you are an incurable optimist if you think you can make a good husband out of that sort of a young man. You couldn't build a strong bridge out of rotten planks, and no more can you make a strong and steadfast man out of a weak and unprincipled character.

What makes you think that a man who is dastardly enough to betray a young girl has the qualities that would make him a desirable husband? What makes you think that a drunkard is a good man to tie to? What makes you think that you would insure your happiness and well-being by marrying a man who has no way of supporting a family who hasn't even a job? I should say that any one of the three counts would make him highly ineligible and that put together they would make marrying him equivalent to deliberately committing suicide.

And what reason have you to suppose that he has sown his wild oats? It is true that he has put in a pretty big crop for one so young, but I see

Surface Anger, Though Rough, Is No Proof of Real Hatred

BY ANGELO PATRI

Billy, just past two, and Rita, almost three, were seated on the rug building with big shiny wooden blocks. Billy laid a block and Rita laid one, and the construction was well under way when Rita said, "We're building a nice garage, Billy."

"We're building a nice fire house, Rita."

Rita held a long block in her hand and said with clear emphasis, "We are building a nice garage, Billy, and this is the post for the big front door." Carefully she placed it in an upright position while Billy watched. Quite as carefully, Billy took the block down, set it aside and laid his own block in place, length-wise, saying, "We are building a nice fire house, Rita."

Rita lay down on the building, flat, and shrieked, "We're building a nice garage, we are, we are."

"Biff!" A resounding whack on Rita's head, with the large block in question, was Billy's answer.

Mother to the Rescue

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" said mother, running to the rescue. "Poor Rita! How could you be so cruel, Billy? Hit poor Rita like that. Come, Rita, sit on my lap and I'll comfort you. Billy is a naughty boy."

Rita sobbed for a few minutes, her head against the comforting breast. Soon she was ready to play again and giggled down to the floor.

"Don't play with Billy unless he shows he is sorry he hit you. He must not hit people he plays with."

"That's all right," said Rita grimly. "Next time I'll hit him first. Let's go."

That's about the way they look at it at this age. Biff and the return Bang is the natural way of doing it. There is no use in our getting angry about it, no use in chasing the offender home, no sense in harboring ill-feeling against child or neighbor.

There is a Better Way. In time, given plenty of experience, they learn that there is a better way. We separate them if possible before the final onslaught. We watch to see that the play is not too exciting, so that it tempts no violence. We try to see that they handle no dangerous weapons, no pointed sticks, no heavy hammers, no edged tools. Of course, they have no guns or pistols, not even toy ones.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

GRAHAM CRACKER DESSERTS

We used to give graham crackers to the baby to chew on when he became fussy; or to the youngsters when they came home hungry from school. We still do, but we make many of our best desserts from graham crackers, too. Graham cracker desserts can be, and almost always are, delicious.

Here are a few you will want to try. Graham Cracker Fruit Roll, is one of those speedy desserts that doesn't require cooking. It's delicate and attractive and will be welcomed by your family and guests as well.

For an easily prepared dessert with plenty of appetite appeal serve the Graham Banana Pudding. It's fun to bake a new and different cake occasionally. You are going to like this cake for a reason other than its novelty, however. It is a good cake first, and an unusual cake second.

Graham Cracker Fruit Roll

1 lb. dates
1 cup nuts
1 lb. marshmallows
1 lb. graham crackers
1 cup whipping cream

Cut up dates, nuts, and marshmallows. Roll crackers fine. Whip the cream, fold in the other ingredients which have been mixed together. Form into a loaf. Roll in additional cracker crumbs and place in refrigerator over night. Cut in slices, top with whipped cream and garnish with a maraschino cherry.

Graham Banana Pudding

2 cups graham cracker crumbs
3 bananas
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup butter

Juice of 1 lemon
Juice of 1 orange

home, and still more seriously, to having dishes proffered at his right, will find himself really handicapped by his awkwardness when eating away from home—at the very times, in short, when his awkwardness will annoy and even possibly embarrass him most.

A Divorcee's Name

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain again how a divorcee arrives at her new name. That is, what other name is she expected to use in place of her husband's christian name?

Answer: If she was Mary Smith before she married John Jones, she should call herself Mrs. Smith Jones instead of Mrs. John Jones. Sometimes it happens that the combination of two particular names becomes absurd. For example, Gate Post, Plum Pitt, Shell Fish, Black Diamond, etc., and it is therefore better to take a more suitable name in her family such as her mother's maiden name or even her grand-mother's.

Dear Mrs. Post: In a simple house where there is no one to wait on table, what would be your opinion of letting the young daughter of twelve and the young son of nine clear off the table for dessert and then serve the dessert, which would be in the dishes, ready? The children would like to do this for me and it would enable me to stay at table and talk to our guests.

Answer: I think the idea excellent—not only as being helpful to you in letting you sit undisturbed at table, but of greatest benefit to the children. Ease—which always means skill—cannot have better training than that which quiet and efficiently careful table service exacts. As a matter of fact, letting children "wait on" visitors has been regulation social training in best society—always.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

There are two radically different types of communist. One is wholeheartedly concerned with helping the weak and unfortunate, as was Christ. The other is simply full of hatred and envy for the richer or ruling class. He is basically a jealous person who professes love for his fellowmen chiefly as a means of enlisting their aid in his personal "struggle, fight." Which type of communist do you think Stalin belongs to?

CASE P-162: Hilda S., aged 19, is a college sophomore.

"A few weeks ago you mentioned that several of the dictators were short men," she began, "and indicated that this factor might help explain their autocratic natures."

"You mentioned, for example, that Napoleon and Franco and Mussolini and Hitler are all under-sized, and said it was not uncommon for such persons to attempt to compensate by developing a power complex."

"That sounded fairly reasonable to me, but how do you account for Russia's dictator, Stalin? Do you think he is also compensating for some physical or social stigma?"

DIAGNOSIS:

Since I do not know Stalin personally, I must rely upon the statements of those who have been intimately acquainted with him, for facts about his life and person. Leon Trotsky states that Stalin has partial paralysis of the left arm and has webbed toes on one of his feet, factors which led to his rejection for active military service.

His father was a hard, brutal drunkard, whose autocratic behavior may have instilled in the boy an early hatred for authority. His mother, however, was a religious woman who wanted her son to become a priest, and sent him away to a school for clerics.

His classmates were wealthier and of the aristocratic social level.

According to Trotsky, his classmates were also brighter students. Stalin is pictured as being slower to grasp ideas and not an effective speaker.

Trotsky says it was his unfavorable comparison with his wealthier, aristocratic classmates which inflamed Stalin against the upper classes.

Two Kinds Of Communist

There are two types of communist. One is unselfishly devoted to his fellowmen and altruistically concerned over the misfortunes of the downtrodden.

Jesus might well represent this type. He was primarily concerned with helping the poor and the sick, but not with killing the rich and the ruling class.

The other type of communist, however, is the fellow who really has little or no basic interest in the weak and unfortunate, but is simply incensed at the aristocrats.

He claims, of course, to be solely concerned with liberating the masses, whereas this is simply a smoke screen to cover up his personal hatred of the more wealthy or more intelligent.

This man's so-called communism may develop in childhood because a rich boy bests him in scholarship or sports, or wins a girl friend away from him. Thereafter he hates everything connected with the rich.

His subsequent communism is, therefore, a personal bias against those who rank above him in the social or financial scale.

To help win aid in his campaign against the upper classes or "economic royalists," he must rationalize his hatred and show his downtrodden brethren that he is really becoming a martyr for their best interests. This enlists their aid and helps furnish him with soldiers or comrades for his great fight.

How Would You Rate Stalin?

Which type of communist do you think Stalin belongs to? Is he another Jesus, primarily concerned with uplifting his fellowmen and helping promote peace and brotherly love?

Or is he a communist of the "grudge" type whose doctrines are really a rationalized smoke screen to cover up his own hatred of the leaders of society?

The latter type of communist likes to kill off the aristocrats. Jesus never advocated war against the rulers of the people.

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

Yesterday: Sue's home is not the same after Allen's wife, shallow, selfish Patsy, comes to live in it. Patsy starts agitating for a move to a large house.

Chapter 10

Sister Versus Wife. HER'S your money. Your share of the sale of your father's house," Patsy said impatiently. "I suppose you know Allen invested that money for you?"

"Yes, I believe so."

"Well! Sue, for heaven's sake wake up and try to realize the situation. Allen's a family man now. His first duty is to me, not to you. If you are going on living with us—"

A cold hand closed on Sue's heart, that heart which had seemed to its owner to have been bruised and curled. The side hair is brushed up and away from the face to give dignity, and softly waved bangs are arranged over the forehead—no tight curls, but deeply waved bangs which are immensely flattering. The back hair is curled close to the head following its natural shape. It appears to be "done up," so sleek is the back hair line."

"For the woman who likes the comfort and smartness of short hair another coiffure emphasizes the contour of her head. This is done with a suggestion of a swirl in back which falls into deeper waves at the sides. A group of soft sculptured curls are set high in front (as shown in photograph). These curls are worn flat during the day and brushed out for a more striking formal effect for evening."

"For the woman who has long hair a smart hair-do is achieved by parting the hair low on one side, drawing it smoothly around the head to the part where it is fastened securely. The ends are curled in to a soft roll. Shorter strands of hair from the lower sides of the part are drawn back, crossing the other hair and tucked under in a smooth flat, side roll. The crossed arrangement in back is striking."

Good Permanent Important

The gray-haired woman must take certain precautions when she shops for a permanent wave. A hair stylist who specializes in coiffures for gray hair, at one of our leading beauty salons, makes these suggestions.

Perhaps you need a series of balsam oil treatments to preserve the elasticity of your hair before your permanent. These should be followed by a balsam oil permanent wave, in correct proportion, to keep the true gray tone of your hair. As gray hair discolors easily we take these precautions. Unless your hair is in perfect, healthy condition do not have a permanent for brittle hair, though curled is not manageable."

This same stylist also cautions gray-haired women against dressing their hair in elaborate coiffures. "Extreme hair styles are not for gray or white hair. Modified versions of current styles are far smarter and create a youthful effect for the face. There are three styles I recommend which are distinctive and flattering."

One is a modification of the bustle-coiffure. The hair is cut to a four-inch length all over the head

ALL-DAY DRESS

BY ANNE ADAMS

This vivacious frock seems to shout its message of youth in every lithesome, spirited line! Best of all, it's equally becoming, whether you're a size fourteen or a size forty-two. For Pattern 4296 has been knowingly, expertly designed by Anne Adams to suit most any type. You'll appreciate the absence of waistline seams—even a beginner can easily stitch up the straight princess lines. The collar is small and trim or in wider, Dutch girl style, and you might like it in crisp white fabric with matching cuffs if the sleeves are short. The long, full-sleeved style is becoming too. Do add the pockets for extra dash.

Pattern 4296 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 4 1/2 yards 39 inch fabrics and 1 yard contrast.

—well, Allen. It's the whole arrangement. Think," she went on reasonably. "We're just this one place to sit in, to entertain our friends. If people drop in to see me, you and Patsy are at a loss. If you want your friends for bridge, say, I must—"

"My friends and your friends! Sue, you must be crazy! Since when have we made a difference between them? We both know the same people. We've managed all right up to now. Why—"

"But, Allen, it isn't the same! You were a bachelor, you went out even more than I did. Now—" you and Patsy will be entertaining, having your friends as well as . . . yours and mine. It's her home, too, you know. We must both remember that."

The man glanced perplexedly from one girl to the other. Patsy sat relaxed in a blue velvet chair, a faintly indolent smile on her lips. Sue, scarlet-checked and breathing a little rapidly, was bolt upright in her favorite corner of the couch.

"Pats, what do you think about all this?" he appealed to his wife.

"I think we should take a house," she replied promptly. "It's nonsense—three people all jammed up in a small place like this. Sue is talking sense. There's a perfectly dandy place on Ashland—"

"The stucco house—I know. But that's out, Pats dear. I told you so when you first spoke of it. It's too far from the office, the rent's too high, it would cost a lot to furnish it. I'm sorry, darling, but I can't afford it just now. I explained all that to you when—before we were married."

"I know," she murmured. "I do understand, truly, Allen. But . . . after all, if Sue is to make her home with us, it's only fair that she share expenses, isn't it? She has a car, and we don't. She has an income which she practically never touches. If we divided the rent and the heat—all our living expenses, lover, we could manage nicely. Sue's willing, aren't you Sue?"

He shook his head. "Divide three ways, you enjoy? Even then I couldn't swing it; couldn't afford a car. You know how things at the office are, Pats; that to meet competition with the Kansas City firms we're working at an actual loss, in money at least. Three Candidates Toss Hats in Ring For Mayor's Post

Nelson to Seek Reelection; Gantter and Egan in Field

Kaukauna — With three candidates announcing yesterday they would run this spring, the race for mayor looks as the most hotly contested in years. In addition to the avowed candidates it is probable that others will take out papers.

Mayor Lewis F. Nelson, elected in a recall election in 1937 and re-elected in 1938, will be a candidate for reelection. In 1938 he defeated William J. Gantter and Oscar W. Alger. Gantter, now state assemblyman, said yesterday he will try for the office this April. A third candidate, George C. Egan, 132 W. Wisconsin avenue, also is in the field.

Others who have been rumored as possible candidates are Dr. W. C. Sullivan, who formerly held the office, William Galmbacher, E. Third street, and Alderman Jule Mertes of the First ward. Yesterday Sullivan and Mertes said they "had no statement to make," while Galmbacher admitted he may come out later.

Kaukauna — Rialto Theater keglers added to their major league lead last night, sweeping three games from Miller High Life, and now top the loop by four and a half games. The theater team, led by Junior Schumann's 55, scored 901, 810 and 677 against 866, 838 and 798. Henry Minkbeleg was high for the Millers with 547.

D and I Motor Sales won the odd game from Veterans of Foreign Wars, 798, 784 and 839 to 782, 837 and 797. Merv Hensen was best for the Sales five with a 499 series, with Henry Schommer topping the Veterans on 503. Series scores were Rialto, 2,648, Millers, 2,497, Veterans, 2,416, D and I Sales, 2,321.

Illness Is Fatal to Mrs. Augusta Cotter

Kaukauna — Mrs. Augusta Cotter, 67, 216 Island street, died at 2:30 Monday afternoon at Appleton after a 2-week illness. She was born in Germany in 1872 and came to the United States in 1892, settling in Shawano. Mrs. Cotter lived in Kaukauna since 1923.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. William Dery, Mrs. Chris Kinder, Kaukauna; Mrs. Fred Janke, Bear Creek; Mrs. Henry Hennrichson, Menasha; Mrs. Chester Olson, Neenah; seven sons, Otto, Lawrence, Floyd, Joseph, Kaukauna; Harold, Harry, Appleton; William, Shawano. 46 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at the residence and at 2 o'clock at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church by the Rev. Paul Th. Oehlert. Burial will be in the Lutheran cemetery.

County Normal School Students Sponsor Show

Kaukauna — Students of Outagamie Rural Normal school are sponsoring a benefit show at Rialto theater Wednesday and Thursday. On the screen will be "Eternally Yours," with Loretta Young, and "What a Life," with Jackie Cooper.

Merchant Cagers Will Play Reformatory Team

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Merchants basketball team will travel to Green Bay Thursday evening for a game with the strong state reformatory team. The Merchants are Kaukauna's best team, being undefeated in city league play.

Snow Removal on City Ice Rinks Completed

Kaukauna — Skaters may take to the city ice rinks again, with the last of the snow removed over the weekend, according to Clifford H. Kemp, city recreational director. The Park-Nicollet school skating meet, slated for yesterday, was postponed until Monday.

Forum Series Will be Continued at School

Kaukauna — The second of a series of six forums will be conducted at 8:15 tonight at Park school by Grant C. Hoar, Madison news commentator. His subject will be "Democracy — What It Is and What It Is Not."

Thousands of Ducks Are Seen at Rapids

Kaukauna — With the latest cold wave freezing over all still water

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Commission Seeks Bids On Project Materials

Kaukauna — The utilities commission is advertising for bids for four classes of materials for use in the power project, according to H. F. Weckwerth, superintendent. Bids will be received up to Feb. 2 for head gates and appurtenances, trash racks and miscellaneous structural steel, reinforcing steel and joint materials. The total material required weighs more than 180,000 pounds.

Kaukauna Squad To Play Leading Rockets Friday

Neenah Team Has Season's Record of Seven Straight Victories

Kaukauna — Heartened by their 55 to 19 victory over Clintonville Friday, Coach Guy Krumm's cagers are preparing this week for the task of stopping Neenah's Red Rockets in another home game Friday night. Stopping the Rockets is something no other conference five has accomplished, last year's co-champions having rung up seven straight wins.

If Kaukauna makes half the shots that went through last week it'll be a close game. Toward the end of the game the boys simply couldn't miss. Krumm had Neenah in mind before the game was over, saying he wished some of the shots could have been "bottled up and saved for next week."

Bill Alger tops the scoring list with 101. Following Alger are Joe Bloch, 65, Don Bixel, who made 14 points last week, 58, Karl Giordana, 50, Bill Tesson, 14, William Riquette, 2, and Calvin Spive, 1. In deciding 12 games Kaukauna has scored 339 points to opponents' 286.

Must Stop Hesselman

The boys have met Neenah once before this year, losing an 18 to 15 decision on the Rockets' floor. The main task seems to be stopping Harlan Hesselman, star Neenah center, who has been running wild this season. The Rocket five boasts a smooth attack, and has improved with each successive win.

Kaukauna is now in fourth place in the Northeastern conference standings, with a record of 4 and 3, three games from the top. After the Neenah game the team will play twice away from home, at St. Mary's of Menasha and at Menasha, and then will end the season here against Shawano and New London.

Holy Cross Parish Sets Up School Fund

Kaukauna — A school fund, with a start of $2,000, was set up at the bi-annual meeting of Holy Cross congregation Sunday morning. Ethel Brewster and C. Vandenhoven were elected trustees, with J. P. Kline and Joseph McCarty named consultants. Appointed on the school committee were Mrs. McCarty, Charles Appleton and Emil Franz. The membership report showed about 800 families in the congregation.

Score of Students Join Camera Club of School at Kimberly

Kimberly — About twenty students are members of the Camera club at the high school, which is under the direction of Ray Christoph. The general purpose of the club is to instruct students to get better pictures, lighting, and to develop and print their own pictures, thus learning the fundamentals of photography.

The group has its own dark room and chemicals at the school. About twice a month members go around in the village and take pictures. The club is assisting in the preparation of the school annual, "Kinet," which will be published in May. Miss Jean Webster is the adviser.

Miss Mary Van Heeswyk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Heeswyk, was honored at a birthday party at her home Sunday evening. Games and dancing furnished the entertainment.

Those attending were Betty and Anna Van Heeswyk, Johanna Werts, Betty Gerrits, Dorothy De Wildt, Harriet and Catherine Vanden Hooen, Anna Lamers, Dorothy Hoesen, Marion Van Heeswyk, Harry Lamers, George Van Heeswyk, and John and Cornelius Lamers. Kimberly, Miss Anita Mulien, Irene Lambert, Dorothy Van Lankevelt, Albert Dalvoet, and Joseph Jansen, Little Chute, and Miss Dorothy Vandenbergh, Appleton.

Mrs. John Laeyendecker, Sr., is confined to her home with illness.

Admits Stealing Eggs; Placed on Probation

Waupaca — Appearing before Judge A. M. Scheller Monday, John Wesley Stevens of Manawa, was placed on probation for two years. On Jan. 9 Stevens entered the home of Victor Thiel, farmer of the town of Little Wolf, where he confessed he took a case of eggs which he sold to the Ebel's Market in Manawa. After his plea of guilty when taken before Justice S. W. Johnson, he was bound over circuit court and in default of $1,000 bond had been in the county jail since that date.

Thousands of ducks have stopped over at the rapids north of the ball park, one of the few open water stretches in the state. Mallards, canvasbacks and other species may be seen daily.

Green Insinuates and Pegler Steps Right Up to Swing Again

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York — William Green, the illustrious president of the American Federation of Labor, has made a strange reply to prove that the bosses of two of his most powerful international unions are not criminals of the most vicious type. These two are Willie Bioff, the dictator of the theatrical and movie trades, and George Scalse, president of the Building Service Employees' International union. They got their training for the post of bargaining agent by serving as such for prostitutes and they are known to the police of their respective home towns—Chicago and Brooklyn—as racketeers and alumni of the old Capone mob of terrorists.

Pegler

Mr. Green knows all about them, and yet when presented to the rank and file of the A. F. of L. and the general public of the character of his two respective colleagues in the higher councils of the A. F. of L. his answer is that "hiring propaganda-mongers" of enemies of labor are taking advantage of labor's schism to "smear the labor movement."

I take it that Mr. Green means me, and I am not going to let him get away with it. The disclosures regarding Bioff and Scalse were made in these lofty essays, and Mr. Green's reply suggests that I have a secret retainer from some mysterious anti-labor force to discredit unionism. It is a sneaky answer, because he resorts to insinuation, but I won't hold out for a direct charge. I challenge him on the insinuation to produce evidence that I have been hired by enemies of labor to smear the movement. Under what bridge at what time of what night did what enemies of labor pay me how much to smear the movement, and if Mr. Green has the slightest evidence to support his insinuation why is he neglecting his duty to bat my ears down? He is paid to protect labor from its enemies, isn't he?

The truth is that I have done a service for organized labor in exposing vicious conditions in the union racket. Mr. Green knows that, revealing as these disclosures are, they are only a suggestion of the whole state of affairs, and he has become jumpy waiting for me to drop that other shoe. As to that I will say that I am a centipede. I can keep on dropping shoes until Mr. Green gives some evidence of a sense of responsibility to the dues-paying workers and the public and a determination to clean the criminals out of the American Federation of Labor or until the A. F. of L. kicks him out and puts in some man who can and will.

Autonomy Argument Opens Lots of Holes

That old stall of Mr. Green's that the constitution of the A. F. of L. forbids interference with the autonomy of the subsidiary unions has been used to cover the development in the United States of a system of brigandage and extortion closely akin to the Italian mafia under which career men of the crime business prey on employees as well as employers. They form conspiracies with employers to limit competition, and they rob the union members through extortionate dues, assessments and initiation fees and the practice of job-selling. The parent body enjoys a big, if not necessarily fine, reputation and has great political influence, and the charters which it issues, thus can become, and in many cases are, no better than licenses to rob and oppress.

Embezzlement is by no means rare, but democracy is, and the autonomy gag is used by the parent organization to shirk the unpleasant duty of fighting notorious racketeers in the subsidiary unions. It is used also to avoid the plain duty of any labor organization to protect individual workmen from cruel persecution by crooked officials of their locals or international as when a man appeals to Mr. Green's office and is told that the national body can't interfere with the judgment of the subsidiary bodies.

Mr. Green called on the national, state and local authorities to enforce the public laws against union officials who abuse their power, knowing, however, that union members are forbidden to appeal to the public authorities except in desperation, that anyone who does appeal to them will be smeared as a disrupter, scab, rat and fink, that the public authorities simply can't take over in detail the police duties of the unions, and that in many cases in such situations the victim runs the risk of being waylaid by murderers and beaten to death with a ball-bat. There are many precedents for that.

Knights of Columbus Hear Kriesa Talk on Cuban Trip

Kaukauna — Clarence Kriesa, high school band instructor, spoke on his recent trip to Cuba as Knights of Columbus met last night. Kriesa illustrated his talk with pictures. Naming of a new secretary in place of F. Stanley Schmidt, resigned, was postponed until the next meeting. At that session the Fond du Lac glee club will entertain.

Catholic Knights of Wisconsin will elect officers at a meeting Thursday evening at St. Mary's hall. Entertainment and refreshments will follow.

Royal Neighbors of America will hold a public card party at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows hall. Prizes will be awarded and each have a small but adequate income. I've been living on that. Sue's is big enough to run the little car.

Allan society of Holy Cross church will sponsor a card party Tuesday evening after devotions at the church hall. Lunch will be served. Mrs. Emil Franz is chairman.

"But, Allen!" It was Sue herself who broke in eagerly. "I'm just realizing! It's because you have supported us both that I was able to buy the car. I honestly didn't know that before. I simply took it for granted that there was enough money for us both, and let it go at that. It's you who should have the car!"

"Now listen, Sue," he said firmly. "The arrangement has not been as one-sided as you think. You've paid your share of expenses right along. As a matter of fact, I couldn't have kept up this apartment just at first if I hadn't deduced your share from your quarterly check. The last year or so I've been able to swing it alone. I shouldn't have dared ask Patsy to marry me, if I hadn't; knowing that a girl as pretty and attractive as you will in the nature of things marry soon and leave us. But until that time—" his face grew troubled—"can't you stick it, Sis? I—I don't want you to leave your brother's roof until you go to your husband's. Pats, tell her she's not to think of leaving us! Why, gosh!" he exclaimed. "I look forward all day to coming home to my two girls at night! I'm going to hate the fellow who takes my little sister away!"

He was so genuinely in earnest, his voice so full of distress that Sue could only let the subject drop. She stole a glance at her sister-in-law and found that inscrutable person staring into the fire, her lip caught beneath her white teeth.

Like a Cat
"I'm going out," Sue Davenport declared one afternoon in late February. "Rain or no rain, I've got to get some fresh air. I've been cooped up here long enough. She wore a thin red rubber cape over her tweed suit, her small-brimmed hat was water-proof.

Patsy looked up lazily. "And I was just thanking my lucky stars I didn't have to trudge down to the office! I hate wet weather. Driving, Sue?"

"Walking. I need a good tramp." She resisted all impulse to close the door.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — I'm getting oh-so-damn-weary of reading superlatives about the genius of Mr. Orson Welles. Perhaps the praise is justified. I'm willing to grant, just to discourage a further boring argument, that he wrote "Hamlet" at six years of age, produced the Ober-Amurgau Passion Play at ten, invented radio at fifteen and played all the roles in "Strange Interlude" at twenty. Far be it from me to deny (lest I start further conversation about him) that he is the boy genius of the stage, the miracle man of the air waves, the heavenly visitant from Mars and the capital "B" in Ballyhoo. But I'll not admit that he's God's Gift to the movies until he actually produces a picture! I've seen too many celebrities in other fields come to Hollywood and fall very flat on their talented noses.

If it weren't for the smug pleasure evident in the smile Mr. Welles does for publicity pictures, I would feel sympathy for him, for this avalanche of premature press-agency imposes on him a heavy handicap. If his first picture is less than a miraculous all-time best, an oversold public is going to be very, very disillusioned. Mr. Welles has been placed on the spot—either he must live up to the most extravagant praise ever concocted, even in Hollywood, or be adjudged a flop. Halfway success won't do.

As Longfellow eloquently pointed out, "Big words do not smite like war clubs; boasting makes not brave; like bowstrings," and neither do advance publicity rantings guarantee a super movie. The final verdict on Mr. Welles will be found in work achieved, not in work predicted. I wish him well.

PERSONAL OBSERVATIONS: Luise Rainer's mile-a-minute gestures, combined with her staccato conversation, make me think of a Fourth-of-July pin wheel. If there's a pool in the neighborhood, Lana Turner's sure to be swim-sulted—and who can blame her? Ad nervous setpieces: Brian Donlevy. I like Merle Oberon's little-girl habit of wearing hair-ribbons. No Corporal-of-the-Guard ever stood more erect than Francis Lederer. If there's a davenport on the set you'll find Lionel Barrymore lazily there, full length, between scenes. It would warm your heart to see the ecstatic bliss that floods Loretta Young's face when she dons her bedroom slippers after a fatiguing scene.

CUFF NOTES: On that Mexican hunting hunt, Clark Gable killed a

There were times when Sue forgot she was there; when Barbara Webb dropped in, and after a polite exchange of greeting with Allen's wife, she and Sue were off in a gale of lively chatter. Bob Trenton, at first acutely conscious of that languid silent figure, himself learned to ignore, if not to forget it. Pats woke up only when Allen came home, or her sisters dropped in. Then she came to life with a rush of animation, a sparkle of talk which never ceased to astonish her small sister-in-law.

"I can't stand it any longer—I can't," muttered Sue today, as her face wet with the drizzling rain and her lungs welcoming the clean air, she walked briskly along. "Allen thinks she is like that all day; that I'm lucky to have such a charming companion from morning till night. And if he knew that she spends the whole time smoking and brooding in that chair—or whatever she is doing when she narrows her eyes like that—he'd say that at least she doesn't interfere with my own life. But I have no life, that's the truth of the matter. I don't like to ask people in for the evening because I know it's the only time Allen has with Pats. And I'm tired, tired; of movies, and parties—anything to get away!"

"Hey, slow up, you small tornado!" a cheerful voice bade her. "Where's the fire this dampish day?"

Little Chute City Hall Dedication Scheduled Feb. 4

Arrangements are Being Outlined by Business Men's Association

Little Chute — Plans are under way for the formal dedication program of the new village hall, scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 4. The affair is being sponsored by the members of the Little Chute Business Men's association, with Gerard H. Van Hoof and L. N. Schommer as co-chairmen, assisted by Theodore Verkuilen, John Oudenhoven and Frank Weyenberg. The building will be open all Sunday afternoon and evening, Feb. 4, for visitors.

Concerts will be presented both afternoon and evening by the members of the Little Chute Community band under the direction of "Bill" Novotny of Oshkosh. In the evening there will be dancing to old-time music. A short program of talks and musical numbers will precede the dance. Invitations to the affair also are being extended to the surrounding communities. Work on the building was started in December, 1938, and completed in November, 1939. The actual cost was $93,983.88 of which 45 per cent was a PWA grant.

Mrs. Leonard Romanenko, Kimberly, entertained at a party at her home Sunday afternoon. Cards were played and a lunch was served. Guests from this village included Mrs. Sylvester J. Vandenberg, Mrs. John Ebbens, Miss Lucille Peeters, Miss Marie Hammen and Miss Anna Peeters.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Smits entertained at a party at their home Saturday evening. Cards were played and a lunch was served. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jenny, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Bell, Miss Margaret Jenny, Mrs. Joseph Koehn, Mrs. George Versteegen, Peter J. Jansen, Mrs. Theresa Jansen, Little Chute; Mrs. Amy Clemons, Appleton.

Miss Theckle Lenz, daughter of Mrs. Clara Lenz, is confined to her home because of illness.

Miss Doris Peeters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peeters, Jefferson street, is at St. Elizabeth hospital for treatment.

Henry Van Schindell, Louis Verhagen, Sr. J. Van Laenen and John J. Van Handle left Tuesday for a several weeks visit in Florida.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sell, 825 E. John street, of the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Fentnor, to Theodore J. Morrison, Los Angeles, Calif., which took place last week at Yuma, Ariz. Mrs. Fentnor, an interior decorator, left Appleton shortly after Christmas, and she and her husband will make their home in Los Angeles.

Hansen-Whitney

Miss Lorraine Hansen and Marvin C. Whitney were married at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Holy Ghost Lutheran church, Waupaca, the Rev. I. M. Anderson officiating. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Veggo Hansen, Waupaca, was attended by Mrs. Gerhard Arndt, Fremont, as matron of honor and Miss Florence Adams, as her bridesmaid. The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Whitney, Crystal Lake, was attended by his brother, Elmer Whitney.

A 5 o'clock supper was served the bridal party and members of the immediate family at the Anne of Green Gables Tea room, Waupaca. Also guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Anderson.

In the evening 500 guests attended a shower and dance in honor of the couple at the Danes Home hall. A 7-piece orchestra furnished music.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will live on the Veggo Hansen farm in the town of Waupaca.

Meier-Zentner

The marriage of Miss Alma Meier, Oshkosh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Meier, Neenah, and Richard Zentner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Zentner, Oshkosh, took place Saturday afternoon at First English Lutheran church at Oshkosh. The Rev. E. A. Koch performed the ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her sister, Elvira, was maid of honor, and Emerson Neuenfeldt attended the bridegroom as best man.

A wedding dinner for the immediate families was served at Hotel Althorn, and in the evening a reception was held at the Zentner home. The couple will reside at 314 Fifteenth street, Oshkosh.

Seymour Gmeiner, Jr. To Wed Illinois Girl

Mr. and Mrs. Edelbert Leonard, Highland Park, Ill., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Seymour Gmeiner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Gmeiner, Sr., 925 E. Pacific street. The wedding will be performed by the Rev. William J. Spicer, rector of All Saints Episcopal church of Appleton, at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Feb. 3 at the Leonard home in Highland Park, and the couple will reside in Appleton.

Both Mr. Gmeiner and his fiancée attended Lawrence college, the former graduating in 1935. Mr. Gmeiner attended the law school of the University of Wisconsin and is now in the law office of A. H. Krugmeier.

Miss Leonard is a member of Delta Gamma sorority and Mr. Gmeiner is affiliated with Phi Delta Theta.

Guild Board Maps Plans for Benefit Show, Supper Series

Several coming projects, the benefit movie it will sponsor beginning Feb. 2, the George Washington dinner Feb. 21 and the weekly lenten suppers, were discussed at a board meeting of the Presbyterian Guild Monday night at the home of Mrs. E. F. Mielke, E. River drive.

The Guild will sponsor the showing of the movie, "The Great Victor Herbert," and has divided its members into eight teams who will vie with each other for the largest number of ticket sales. Captains of the teams are Mrs. John Oliver, Mrs. Anton Suchy, Mrs. Lloyd Hartwig, Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. Alex Pierre, Mrs. Martin Hendricks, Mrs. M. G. Fox and Mrs. Lawrence Zimmerman.

Similar to the George Washington dinners sponsored by the Guild the last two years, this year's affair will be held Feb. 21 at Memorial Presbyterian church. The only change will be that serving will be continuous from 5:30 on, instead of having everybody seated at the same time. The minut will be danced at 6:15.

Committees for the congregational lenten suppers which will be served in the church dining room before the lenten worship services each Thursday night during lent also were announced at the board meeting last night.

Mrs. A. W. Miller is chairman of the supper Feb. 8; Mrs. William Rollinson and Mrs. F. W. Schneider will be co-chairmen Feb. 15; Mrs. John Oliver and Mrs. Anton Suchy, Feb. 29; Mrs. Ben Rowland and Mrs. R. K. Bell, March 7; and Mrs. Charles Hanlon and Mrs. Harold H. Heller, March 14. There will be no supper Feb. 22 because of the Washington dinner the previous night.

Jaces Auxiliary to Aid in Youth Day, July 4th Projects

Committees to assist the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at its Rural Youth day and its Fourth of July celebration were appointed at a dinner meeting of the Jaces auxiliary Monday night at the Candle Glow Tea room. Named to the Rural Youth day committee were Mrs. Roland Nock, chairman, Mrs. Sylvester Simon, Mrs. Frank Polzin and Mrs. H. L. Davis, Jr., and to the Fourth of July committee, Mrs. Max Kneip, Mrs. Charles Shannon, Mrs. Gerry Harder, Mrs. Jack Kirk and Mrs. Ludwig Schink.

It was announced that the Appleton auxiliary was donating its share to the purchase of an iron lung, the state project of the auxiliary. A local project, the collection of carious old magazines for use in the high schools, also was announced. Mrs. Sylvester Esler is chairman of the committee in charge of the undertaking.

Two new members, Mrs. Walter Elder and Mrs. Urban Marr, the latter an associate member, were taken into the auxiliary last night.

After the business session motion pictures taken on a recent trip to Lake Louise, British Columbia and the state of Washington were shown by Mrs. Lee Rosholt and Mrs. Jack Kirk. They also showed pictures taken at last year's Fourth of July celebration and Rural Youth day. The auxiliary's next dinner meeting will be held Feb. 5 at the Candle Glow Tea room. It will begin at 5:15, earlier than usual, and will have as its guest of honor Miss Aime Zillmer, who will begin a series of lectures under the auspices of the auxiliary that night at the Y. M. C. A. On the hostess committee for that night are Mrs. Roland Nock, Mrs. Ludwig Schink and Mrs. Max Kneip.

Farm Census Forms are Available at Waupaca

Manawa—The bureau of the census, department of commerce, Washington, D. C., has begun the distribution of sample farm census forms to farmers throughout Waupaca county. L. J. Steiger, county clerk, has announced. The Steiger is assisting the bureau with the task of sending forms to county residents. The forms are sample copies of the originals which will be used by the census enumerators during the next few months and anyone desiring duplicate copies may call at the county clerk's office or send their requests by mail. This will enable the farmer to study the questions and be better prepared to answer them when the census enumerator arrives.

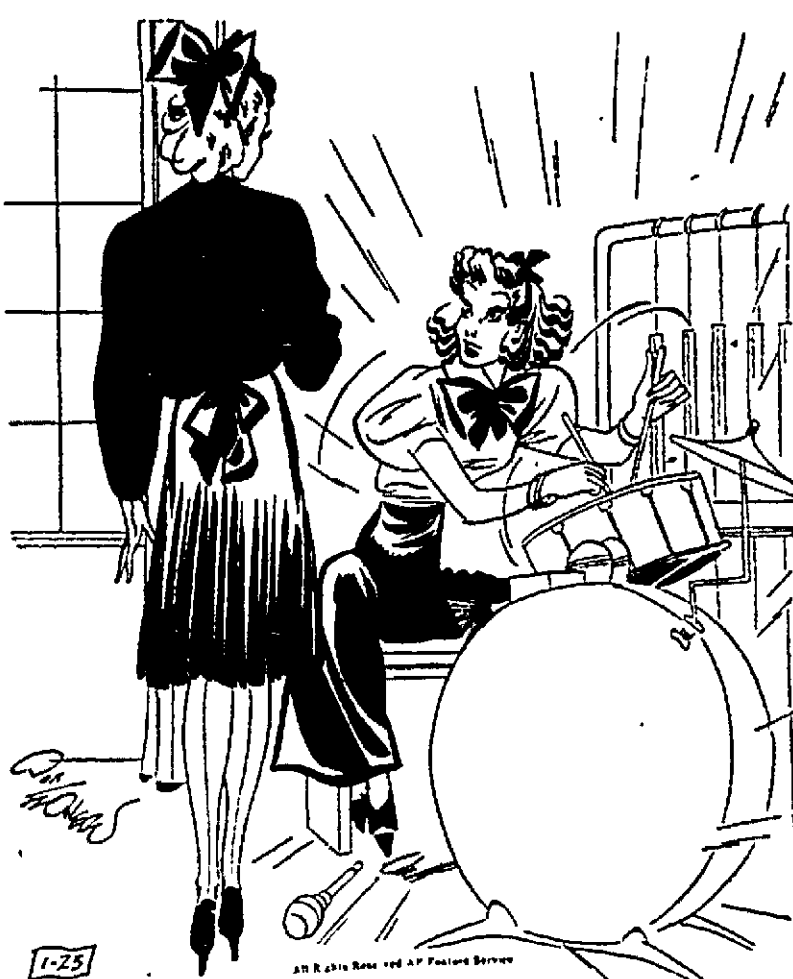

George Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Beyer of this place, is recovering from a broken arm and leg received in an airplane crash near Newport, R. I., Monday, Dec. 4. George, who is confined at the United States naval hospital at Newport, is a member of the United States Naval Air corps and is one of the personnel of patrol squadron VP-34.

The first rehearsal of the newly organized adult chorus will be held in the high school gymnasium Thursday evening. All persons in central Waupaca county interested in group singing are invited. Carlton Patt, music director at the grade and high schools, will be in charge.

A.A.U.W. Sale of Books to Benefit Scholarship Fund

What to do with old Fortune, Time and National Geographic magazines, as well as old textbooks and novels that are cluttering up the attic or overflowing the bookshelves has a solution in the used book sale which will be sponsored Friday afternoon and evening and all day Saturday in the lobby of the Zuelke building by the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women.

Books and magazines will be received all day Thursday and Friday morning in the Zuelke building lobby. Those who wish to donate books but have no way of getting them there have only to call Mrs. Walter Brummund, general chairman of the sale, Mrs. Charles Pardee, assistant chairman, or Mrs. F. F. Wheeler, president of the association, and the books will be called for.

Proceeds of the sale will benefit the association's fellowship and scholarship funds. The scholarship is given annually to a needy Appleton High school girl graduate whose scholastic standing and outside activities seem to warrant aid for further study. The scholarships, which amount to $100, have been given annually since 1913, always to Lawrence college. High school and junior high school faculty members who are members of the A.A.U.W. make up the committee that decides to whom the scholarship should be awarded. All but two of the girls who have been given such scholarships in the last 26 years have been graduated from college.

The association also has a loan fund of $100 a year to which girls who have already started college are entitled. This fund is not confined to girls who received scholarships.

Letter Tells of Visit To Southern Nations

Forest Junction—Writing to his sister here, Miss Hattie Ott, under date of Jan. 11, Elmer Ott, vice president of the Madison branch of the Ray-O-Vac company, describes the countries of South America where he, Mrs. Ott and daughter Nancy, have been on a business and pleasure trip since Dec. 13.

The mountainous setting of Rio de Janeiro, where the upper classes of its two and one half million people live in apartments and its poorer classes in huts on the mountain side, the home-like atmosphere of Sao Paul, where are located most of the Brazilian branches of United States manufacturers; and the present record heat wave in Buenos Aires, largest city in South America, are described in the letter.

Buenos Aires is on the edge of the vast agricultural plains of Argentina and includes in its population of three and one-half million, wages are very low, says the letter, as compared to the prevailing scales in the United States. Factory workers get from $20 to $30 per month, and everything is about 25 years behind the North American standard.

The Ott family left its home at Madison the last week in November, and enjoyed a 14-day ocean voyage before landing at Rio de Janeiro. Some of their longer routes in South America are being made by aeroplane.

James Bowdoin was the first president of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1780.

Many Projects are Launched by Pupils At Combined Locks

Combined Locks—The seventh grade geography class has been preparing graphs showing the production of coal, petroleum and other minerals in the different states of the United States. Exhibits also have been prepared portraying different types of wood and coal. Basket weaving and clay modeling have been taught in the upper four grades during art periods.

The science and manual arts room is now fully equipped with the basic tools. Classes have been making storage cabinets, work benches and various other things needed in the school. During the rest of the year the classes will work on some of the accepted projects of the course. The sixth grade will be given manual arts once each week during the second semester.

The first and second graders have started a unit on clothing. They will study the different kinds of clothes they wear. In connection with the unit, pupils will have an exhibit table with all the things they can collect that have a relationship to the unit on clothing.

The third grade is nearing completion of an Indian unit which has comprised a semester's work in social studies. The unit has consisted of a study of early North American Indians, their homes, food, clothing, language, means of travel, amusements, governments, arts and education. The unit closes with a brief study of the Indians of today and a contrast of present day Indian life with that of the early Indians.

Cyril Dale Fox Is Named Winner Of Service Award

Junior Chamber of Commerce Honors City's Outstanding Young Man

The Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce last night announced Cyril Dale Fox as the winner of its annual distinguished service award. The presentation was made by Mayor John Goodland at a dinner at the Hotel Appleton. The award is given each year to an Appleton young man selected for outstanding service to the community.

Six other young men received honorable mention. They are Horace L. Davis, Jr., Fred Bouchton, George Howden, Clark Teel, Elmer R. Honkamp and John Reeve.

The selection of Fox as the award winner was made by a committee composed of Mayor Goodland, two members of the Junior Chamber, Everett Stecker and Wilmer Krueger, and presidents of the service clubs in the city. Past winners of the award were present at the dinner. They are Arthur Jensen, 1932; William E. Buchanan, 1933; Harold Finger, 1934; Philip Ottman, 1935; Martin Unmuth, 1936; R. C. Swanson, 1937 and Carl Holmstrom, 1938.

An appreciation scroll was presented to Radio Stations WBYB and WTAQ for their part in promoting civic enterprises, and the acceptance was made by Father Wagner, managing director of the two stations.

The Junior Chamber will be in charge of the annual Rural Youth day program which will be held the last week in April. Jack Notebaart and Harold Stout were named co-chairmen for the event.

DEATHS

Car, Truck Collide on Little Chute Bridge

A truck and a car were involved in a collision on the Little Chute bridge at 8:30 this morning when steam arising from the river obscured the vision of the drivers. John T. Glasheen, 24, 608 S. State street, was going north in a truck and Martin C. Coenen, Little Chute, was driving a car south when the machines collided, according to Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad. No one was injured.

Kaukauna Man Fined As Reckless Driver

Harold P. Feller, 615 W. Wisconsin avenue, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of reckless driving and was fined $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the county jail when he appeared in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan yesterday afternoon. Feller, who paid the fine, was arrested for driving 40 miles an hour in the city of Kaukauna.

DICK ARENS "MOST VALUABLE BOY" IN SOTAL

A committee of judges selected Dick Arens as the "most valuable boy" in the Sons of the American Legion and last night the Carl J. Schroeder trophy was awarded to him at a dinner for members and parents. The picture above was taken at the dinner and shows: Schroeder, 732 S. Fairview street, director of the drum corp; Arens, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Arens, 520 N. Center street, "most valuable boy"; Frank H. Wilson, 1901 N. Appleton street, commander of the Oney Johnston post and Ray Foxgrover, 407 N. Mason street, chairman of the SOTAL. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Dick Arens Given Award as SOTAL's Most Valuable Boy

Schroeder Trophy Awarded at Dinner for Members and Parents

Dick Arens, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Arens, 520 N. Center street, last night was awarded the Carl J. Schroeder trophy after his selection as the "most valuable boy" in the Sons of the American Legion. The award was made last night at a dinner for members of the SOTAL and their parents at the American Legion clubhouse. Schroeder, director of the SOTAL drum and bugle corps, made the award.

Arens was selected by a committee of judges on the basis of leadership, character and general value to the unit. Raymond Foxgrover, chairman of the SOTAL committee of the American Legion, presided at the dinner and speakers included Frank Wilson, commander of the Oney Johnston post; H. W. Miller, Harvey Priebe and R. G. Kleist, past commanders; Louis Benjamin, member of last year's SOTAL committee; Schroeder and John Wettengel, assistant director of the corps.

Activities for 1940 for the unit and plans for the corps were discussed at last night's meeting. The first rehearsal of the corps will be held at 6:30 Monday night at the Armory.

City to Ask Bids On Power Shovel For Snow Removal

Engineer Authorized to Hire Koepke Plow During Snow Storms

A decision to advertise for bids on a new used three-eighths yard power shovel with a snow bucket came out of a street and bridge committee meeting yesterday in city hall. The purchase of a power shovel is one of three suggestions made by Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer, to make Appleton's snow removal equipment adequate for heavy snow storms. The shovel will be used for loading work during the summer as well as for snow removal work in the winter.

The committee also authorized the city engineer to hire a truck and snow plow from the Koepke Construction company at $4.50 per hour while in use and when it is needed. The city was handicapped considerably during last week's storm because of the lack of equipment to fight the drifting snow.

Wickesberg's suggestions to buy a large power grader, equipped with a V-type plow, and a heavy truck for snow plowing are being considered by the committee. Most of the streets on the snow removal schedule have been cleared of snow at the curbs and all streets in the city are open to traffic. However, clean-up work will continue Wednesday after an interruption today because of the rubbish collection in the third district.

Protests Over Vatican Envoy Noted by Political Experts

Washington — (AP)—The protests from a few groups of Protestant churchmen against sending a diplomatic representative to the Vatican are regarded by politicians as evidence that the spirit which helped to elect Alfred E. Smith in 1928 still lives.

Many of those high in the Democratic party believe that this religious feeling is still strong in some sections of the country. That attitude on their part does not lift the presidential chances of Postmaster General Farley to any high level. Out through the middle west, and in the south, party officials will speak proud words of praise for Farley and add: "But we haven't yet come to a stage of development at which we can elect a Catholic president."

Farley's religion has become the catchword by which his opposition inside the Democratic party disposes of his presidential chances. In like manner, opponents of Vice President Garner and Secretary Hull dispose of them in two words: "too old." Of Paul V. McNutt, they say "too good-looking." For President Roosevelt's opposition, the third-term antipathy is an easy outlet.

The Farley power in the approaching convention is not being minimized by the most astute Democrats, though. Most of those who think of a ticket that does not have Mr. Roosevelt on the front end write Farley down for second place. They speak of "Hull and Farley," or "Garner and Farley," or even "McNutt and Farley."

Colder Weather And Light Snow Forecast Tonight

New Frigid Wave Expected to Continue Through Thursday

Even colder weather was predicted for tomorrow as Wisconsin recorded some of the lowest temperatures in the nation this morning. Wausau, with 14 below zero, had the coldest weather—officially—in the United States. Other low marks were Madison and LaCrosse —11, Park Falls —8, Appleton —5. The temperature has been changing rapidly in Appleton and vicinity with records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company showing 22 degrees at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 5 below at 7 o'clock this morning as the maximum and minimum marks during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning. Mercury in the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building climbed to 14 degrees early this afternoon. Light snow is expected to accompany the cold wave predicted tonight, Wednesday and Thursday.

Los Angeles recorded 65 degrees for the highest mark in the nation yesterday, according to the Associated Press.

COLD IN SOUTH
Chicago — (AP)—Southerners indulged in the novelty of winter sports today while the middle west donned additional woollens in the face of a new cold wave.

The snow and sub-freezing temperatures in Dixie crippled motor travel, endangered the $7,000,000 citrus crop in the Rio Grande valley, and slowed up sternwheel steamer traffic on the lower Mississippi. Atlanta schools were closed. Scheduled army maneuvers at Ft. Benning, Ga., were held in abeyance.

Sub-zero cold nipped at parts of the middle west and was expected to overspread the northwest tonight and move southward and eastward over the north-central states tomorrow. Continued cold was expected generally through Thursday.

In Chicago, Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the new wave was coming in from the MacKenzie basin in Canada. A high-pressure area was moving in on a low-pressure area, forcing the temperature down.

Truck With Load of Oranges Catches Fire When Stove Tips Over

A truck loaded with Florida oranges caught fire about 1:30 yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Highways 76 and 45 at Greenville. An oil stove tipped over in the back of the truck, and the oranges had to be unloaded. The rear of the truck was damaged and part of the load of oranges were lost, according to Ronald Decker, county traffic officer.

Denies He Failed to Stop After Accident

Kenneth Winans, 32, 1320 W. Pine street, pleaded not guilty of failing to stop and give his name and address following a traffic accident when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning. Trial was set for 9 o'clock Thursday morning and he was released under bond of $200.

Winans was arrested following a minor traffic accident on College avenue early Sunday morning. The accident involved another car driven by Aloysius Babino, 1730 W. Rogers avenue.

Young People's Secretary Will Visit Appleton

National Officer to Attend Church School Officers, Teachers Supper

Miss Lucy Eldredge, Dayton, Ohio, secretary of young people's work and student life for the Congregational and Christian churches, will visit First Congregational church Friday, Saturday and Sunday to confer with church school teachers, junior and senior high school departments, Pilgrim Fellowship and other groups. She will attend a church school teachers and officers' pot-luck supper and meeting at 6 o'clock Friday night at the church.

Officers of Women's Association of First Congregational church are being installed at a meeting this afternoon at the church. The Rev. Dascomb E. Forbush, new minister, preached his first sermon Sunday morning.

The Rev. William J. Spicer, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, and C. C. Baker are attending an executive board meeting of the Fond du Lac diocese today in Fond du Lac. The Rev. C. H. Zeidler, pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, will return this evening from St. Paul, Minn., where he is conferring with a professor concerning graduate work which he is doing. Last Sunday he preached at his church at "Souls in the Vineyard."

Conclave at Mt. Olive
About 30 Lutheran ministers of the Fox river valley pastoral conference of the Wisconsin synod are at Mt. Olive Lutheran church today and Wednesday. Papers are scheduled for the daytime sessions and at 7:45 this evening there will be a public service at which the Rev. E. C. Hinneenthal, Forestville, will speak. Last Sunday the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor of Mt. Olive church, preached at his church on "The Right Christian Conduct Regarding Strife and Enmity."

Activities this week at First Baptist church include a church school cabinet meeting at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at the church when plans will be made for the teachers' retreat next Sunday; a deacons and deaconesses meeting at 7:30 Thursday night at the church; and a meeting of the Friendship circle Friday night at the new home of Mrs. Wesley Latham on W. Prospect avenue.

Henry Techlin was installed as chairman of Zion Lutheran congregation and Herman Tock and William C. Mueller as vestrymen by the Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor, at the morning service last Sunday at Zion church. The pastor also gave his annual report.

"Life" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passages were taken from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is, always has been, and ever will be independent of matter; for Life is God, and man is the idea of God, not formed materially but spiritually, and not subject to decay and dust. Life is the everlasting I Am and Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase."

Committees Plan For Housing Show

Duties of the head committee for the annual Better Housing and Home show sponsored by the Knights of Pythias were outlined at the first meeting of the group Monday night at Castle hall. The show will be held at the armory March 14, 15, 16 and 17.

Earl Miller was placed in charge of the ticket sale and he also will act as treasurer. George Nolting will be in charge of decorations and public address announcements; Gilbert Trentlage, correspondence; George Krueger and Henry Osinga, prizes and entertainment; Wilmer Krueger, advertising and publicity; and Earl Ballard and Victor Schmidt, who will solicit exhibitors and handle booth arrangements.

Standard Oil Company Awarded Gas Contract

The county highway committee yesterday at the courthouse awarded the Standard Oil company contracts for furnishing two tank cars of gasoline and a tank car of fuel oil on its low bids of .1130 cents per gallon with tax for gasoline and .09735 cents per gallon with tax for oil. Seven gasoline and seven oil bids were considered. Bills including $3,899.48 for labor and $1,765.27 for materials were allowed.

Health... your biggest bargain

WHAT is your health worth? A foolish question. You wouldn't part with it at any price. Yet you perhaps are neglecting this great asset. Don't take any chances! Appleton Streets How They Were Named

This is one of a number of brief articles telling how certain Appleton streets received their names. Much of the information in these articles comes from a survey made by Miss Anna L. Tenney, 724 E. Alton street.

Lowe street—From Wisconsin avenue south to the city limits, six blocks east of Oneida street.

Named for Judge John Lowe of Green Bay, who was associated with the commercial life of the Fox River valley from 1810 to 1846.

Lawrence street—From Lawrence college west to S. Linwood avenue, a block south of College avenue.

Named for Amos Lawrence, founder of Lawrence college. He was born in Massachusetts and was educated at Harvard. He gave $10,000 to found a college on the land which he has acquired from Eleazer Williams. He died in Boston in 1886.

Lee street—From E. Newberry street to Candee street, one block east of Tululah avenue.

Probably named after Robert E. Lee, confederate general (surmise of old residents).

Report Selection of Site for New London's $85,000 Post Office

The selection of a site located at the northeast corner of S. Pearl street and Wolf River avenue for the New London post office was revealed in a telegram to C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan, national Democratic committeeman for Wisconsin, yesterday from Smith W. Purdum, fourth assistant postmaster general.

The telegram read as follows: "With reference to your inquiry concerning selection of federal building site at New London, Wis., the interdepartmental committee on public buildings is today announcing the selection of a site located at the northeast corner of S. Pearl street and Wolf River avenue, owned by A. A. Waitkus and Mrs. Josephine Hickey."

The governmental appropriation for the new building is $85,000.

Lawyers Favor, Oppose Election Of Attorney General in Spring

Appleton lawyers today offered arguments both for and against electing the state attorney general on a non-partisan ticket in spring rather than in the fall.

A survey was made today following a statement by Attorney General John E. Martin that he believed the state constitution should be amended to provide for election of attorney general in April instead of in November.

Martin said the office of state legal counsel was not a political one and that it should be filled at the time of the spring non-partisan elections when judges are chosen. He also recommended the change apply to county district attorneys. Martin said that the attorney general's job is to "constitute and enforce the law as he sees it, regardless of race, religion or politics."

District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr in agreeing with the attorney general stated he has always felt that the offices of attorney general and district attorney were non-partisan. He said that they are in line with the position of judges and justices.

Suggests Appointment
Alfred S. Bradford said he would be opposed to such elections being held in the spring instead of fall because of the 9-month wait before the man elected would take office. He said the offices should not be elective ones but rather filled by appointment. The attorney general could be appointed by the governor and the district attorney by a circuit judge or county board, he said.

Homor H. Benton stated that as far as the two offices are concerned, they practically are non-partisan. He pointed out that the attorney general was named on a Democratic ticket in a year when most other state political offices were won by Republicans. Voters today are more familiar with the qualifications of men seeking county and state offices and generally select them without regard to political affiliations, he said.

Joseph Witmer, president of the Outagamie County Bar association, was of the opinion that the attorney general should be with the same political party as the governor as they would work together in better harmony. The office of the district attorney is purely a non-political office, he said.

Harry P. Hoeffel, city attorney, agreed with the views expressed by the attorney general. Both offices should be non-partisan in nature and the men selected on a non-partisan ballot, he said.

Wickesberg Will Be Candidate for Engineering Post

Papers Taken Out for William Falatic, Floyd Acheson

Nomination papers today were taken out for Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer, who will seek reelection to the city engineering post in the primary election, Mar. 12.

Wickesberg, alone in the race so far, will finish his first 2-year term as city engineer next May. He defeated Lloyd M. Schindler in the general city election two years ago.

Papers were taken out for William Falatic, incumbent alderman in the Fourteenth ward, who again will run for that office. Falatic is finishing his first term on the council.

Papers were started in circulation today for Floyd Acheson, incumbent supervisor in the Sixteenth ward. Acheson also is finishing his first term.

Others who have announced their intentions to seek political offices to date are: Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer; Aaron Zerbel, incumbent supervisor in the Eighth ward; Leslie Gebheim, seeking the supervisory post in the Sixth ward; and Walter J. Nissen, a candidate for the post of alderman in the Twelfth ward.

Nomination papers for all city offices must be filed in the city clerk's office by Feb. 21. The primary will be March 12 and the general election on April 2.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

RULED FINLAND

The word "fen" means "marsh," and to this day it is used in Great Britain. It came from languages spoken in northern Europe—German and Norse.

Norsemen of Sweden met with people on the eastern side of the Baltic sea about 1,000 years ago, and found many of them living around marshes. The Swedes seem to have given them a name meaning "people of the fens," in other words, "people of the marshes." This name appears to have been changed to the present name, "Finns."

Charles XII, one of the Swedish kings who ruled Finland. The Finns call their country "Suomi," which means "Land of Marshes."

Until lately, most persons outside of Finland have called the capital city of a Swedish name—Helsingfors. In recent months, Helsinki, the Finnish name, has come into widespread use.

Sweden won power in Finland largely by crusades, or "wars of the Cross." The Swedes had turned Christian, and wanted to make the Finns take on the Christian religion.

Power won by force is not likely to last unless it is followed by wise rule which brings good will. The Swedes sent missionaries among the Finns, and after a long time brought them to real belief in Christian ideas. The Finns were allowed to choose men to go to Sweden and help make laws.

The Finns and the Swedes grew to be firm friends. Many Swedes moved into Finland (chiefly to the southern part) and some of them married into Finnish families.

There were not many Finns in the world 300 years ago. Records tell us the number was less than half a million. A big increase has taken place during the past 140 years. Today there are given times as many people in Finland as in 1800.

While Charles XII was on the Swedish throne, Peter the Great was Czar of Russia. War broke out between the two countries, and Russian won. As a result, the eastern side of Finland was taken by Russia.

In 1809 another czar won the rest of the country and made Finland a "grand duchy" in the Russian empire. The Finns were allowed to have a measure of freedom in making their own laws.

Gloves Show Expected to Set Crowd, Entry Marks

Les Holzer Is Named Matchmaker for Elimination Tourney

SCHEDULED FEB. 12

Winners Will be Entered in Green Bay Regional Battles

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
THE biggest amateur fight program and the biggest crowd ever to see an amateur show in Appleton is in prospect Monday, Feb. 12, when the Appleton Post-Crescent and Oney Johnston post of the American Legion present a Golden Gloves elimination program at Armory G.

The show will be the biggest amateur card because it will attract a record number of boxers from the section allotted to Appleton. They'll be from Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Fond du Lac counties and also from Green Bay and Brown county. Just how many bouts the boys will make is a question, but you can bet that there'll be so many that the most rabid fan will be satisfied.

Plan Extra Seats
And that the crowd probably will be the largest is assured by the fact that every effort will be made to arrange for extra seats for the army. They'll be necessary, too, because the show is bound to draw fans from this section particularly, and from the various cities supplying boxers. The only regret is that there isn't a larger hall available.

Appleton has been able to secure this program because the Golden Gloves tournament at Green Bay—that is the preliminary elimination bouts of the tourney—have gotten all out of proportion and there are too many for the Bay promoters.

So the Green Bay Press-Gazette, sponsor of the Green Bay meet, hit upon the idea of having sectional eliminations and Appleton was selected as one of the points. The others are at Two Rivers, Oconto and Escanaba, Mich.

Each center will select 8 novices and 8 regulars who will be entered in the Green Bay meet as a team. The expenses of the boys to Green Bay will be borne by the group sponsoring the sectional tourney. The boys also will be supplied with trunks carrying the name of the city they represent.

However, boys coming to the Appleton sectional tournament will not receive expense money.

Leslie Holzer, matchmaker for Oney Johnston post of the American Legion, has been named matchmaker for the sectional meet. It'll be his job to arrange the pairings and handle a great number of details connected with running the show. His several years of experience and contact with amateurs in this section of the state makes him an invaluable man for the job.

During the next few days he'll contact the various boxing centers in the area assigned the Post-Crescent-Legion and has assured that the program will be unsurpassed anywhere in the state.

Boys Seeking Help
Already reports are coming in that many youngsters with fistic aspirations are looking for someone who can give them instruction. Up around Clintonville the lads are looking for Nibs Knox for help and training.

In Appleton and the immediate vicinity, Tom Cahoe at 22 N. Appleton street, has gathered his charges together and has offered to take care of any lad who wants to learn more about the game. Cahoe has asked only for room where his boys can work; he wants to handle any boy who is interested.

Reports from Oshkosh and Fond du Lac are expected in another day or two but it is known that amateurs in those cities are getting into shape for the elimination and that many of their friends—pleased at the fact they won't have to go far to compete—are considering whether they have the stuff.

The two classes of contestants have been defined in this way: A regular division performer is any lad who has had more than three bouts on cards sanctioned by the state boxing commission or the A.A.U.; a novice is any lad who has not appeared on three sanctioned programs.

Here's also a word for boys who are competing on W.I.A.A. high school sports teams. Entry into the tournament will make you ineligible for high school boxing; it will not jeopardize your eligibility in other sports, according to information now available.

Entry List Closes
An entry blank for the tournament appears on the sport page. Fill it out and send it in as soon as possible. The entry list will close Feb. 7. And remember, no boy will be permitted to fight in the Green Bay regional tourney without having

GOLDEN GLOVES MATCHMAKER

Leslie Holzer, above, who has arranged amateur boxing cards for Oney Johnston post of the American Legion for several years, will handle the matchmaking for the Golden Gloves elimination program to be staged here Feb. 12 at the armory under sponsorship of the Appleton Post-Crescent and the American Legion. Holzer will contact the various boxing centers in Outagamie, Winnebago, Fond du Lac and Waupaca counties, the territory allotted the Appleton card, and will interest boxers who may be hesitant in trying their stuff. Eight of the Appleton regular boxers and eight of the novice boxers will comprise an Appleton team which will enter the Green Bay Golden Gloves regional elimination. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Salad Days Are Over for Dean, Cub Owner Intimates

Cardinal Owners Won't Sell Anyone, Not Even the Batboy

New York —(AP)—Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon, those two St. Louis dealers in baseball ivory at advanced prices, have closed up the old stand.

Baseball club owners and officials hitting town from the hinterlands report that the Trader Horns—or is it Traders Horn?—of the Cardinals won't even sell a batboy this winter, so convinced are they that the Gas House Gang can win the National league pennant with its current personnel.

They've had a whole pile of offers for Ducky Medwick—from Brooklyn, Chicago and the Giants. Some clubs have been after pitchers like Fibber McGee and Max Lanier. Others have put in bids for Don Fadgett, the catching outfielder, and Mickey Owen, who does nothing but catch. To all offers, it's "No dice." Not even the chance to hit the jackpot with another $185,000 for something like the Dizzy Dean that went to the Cubs can interest bargain counter Branch and salesman Sam.

Phil Zwick Stops His Opponent in the First

ing first qualified in an inter-sectional meet. The Green Bay Press-Gazette has assured the Post-Crescent and the Legion of that, and it stands that an extra entry or two would disrupt the Green Bay pairings. When the Bay show goes on Feb. 20 there will be 32 boxers in the regular class and another 32 in the novice class. After the sectional bouts there'll be 16 left in each class for the finals.

Seating arrangements for the Appleton program will be announced in a few days. There'll be about 500 reserved seats and the tickets will be apportioned to the various cities and towns in the Appleton Post-Crescent circulation area. The 600 bleacher seats will be general admission and will go on sale the night of the show. Watch for the ticket sale announcement in a few days!

Celtics Fight Off 4th Period Rally To Beat Potshots

Score Is 32-30; Pirates Wildcats Also Victors in Boys Loop

THE Celtics defeated the Potshots, 32 to 30, the Pirates walloped the Badgers, 51 to 28, and the Wildcats tipped the Phantoms, 24 to 11, Monday in National division games of the Older Boy Basketball league at the Y. M. C. A.

The Celtics led 8 to 0 at the quarter, 16 to 6 at the half, and 31 to 12 at the end of the third quarter. In the final period, the Potshots suddenly came to life and almost drove the Celtics out of the gym.

Pirates and Badgers played close ball in the opening half. The score at the quarter was 11 to 6 and at the half, 17 to 16, with the Pirates ahead. In the final half the Pirates ran away with the game to win, 51 to 28.

Wildcats lead the Phantoms, 7 to 1, at the quarter, and 13 to 5 at the half. In the third quarter it was 18 to 10.

Fondy Marvells to Battle Kimberly
Burton and Winter of Appleton Playing With Down Lake Team

Kimberly — Some of the greatest basketball stars in the state will show at the clubhouse Thursday evening when the Fountain City Marvells of Fond du Lac play the A. A. cagers. The Marvells lineup will present the tallest average lineup in the semi-pro game and features an air-tight defense and a great exhibition of sharpshooting and ball handling. Rollie Winter and Cliff Burton of Appleton play on the squad.

In Burton, the team has a great player. At Lawrence college he won all-state and all-midwestern honors. He is over six foot in height and weighs 195 pounds.

Rollie Winter started as a cager at the University of Idaho where he was named to the Pacific Coast all-star team. He set an all-school record of 20 points in a single game.

The giant player on the team is Bill Potter who plays center and is 6 feet 8 inches tall. Without a doubt it will be Ray Hamann who will watch Potter. Potter was three times on all-state prep team and has been named to many all-star professional selections. It is almost impossible to guard him as he weighs 209 pounds. Other players on the squad are Swede Johnson, 6 foot, 5 inches tall; Bronko Malesovich, 6 feet tall; Carl Guell, 6 foot, 2 inches in height and "King" Arthur, 6 foot, 2 inches tall.

The game will start about 8:15 after a preliminary.

Jimmy Britt, Former Boxer, Is Found Dead

San Francisco —(AP)—The death of Jimmy Britt, the colorful little Irishman who fought the best lightweight of his day at the turn of the century, was announced today to another chapter in San Francisco's robust past.

Britt was found yesterday in his home. Deputy Coroner Michael Brown said death had come a day or two before, evidently from a heart attack. He was 60.

Twice he had fought Joe Gans for the world championship but lost both bouts.

Cunningham Will be Seeking Sixth Win

Boston —(AP)—A field of six, headed by Glenn Cunningham, who is seeking his sixth straight victory in the event, has been lined up for the one-mile feature race of Saturday's 19th annual Prout Memorial games at Boston Garden.

Other entrants are Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin; Blaine Rideout of Texas; Archie San Romani of Kansas; John Munski of Missouri, and Lou Zamperini, former University of Southern California miler.

NEXT FRIDAY'S GAMES

Oshkosh at Green Bay East.
Green Bay West at Appleton.
Sheboygan Central at Fond du Lac.
Manitowoc at Sheboygan North.

WITH the final round of games in the first half of the Fox Valley conference scheduled for Friday, the Oshkosh caging machine continues to roll along, without a defeat in six games to date.

Oshkosh, which holds the top offensive record of the conference, next Friday will invade the court of Green Bay East, holder of the circuit's best defensive mark, but tied for last place in the Valley standings.

Central At Fondy
In other conference engagements Green Bay West will move to Appleton, Sheboygan Central to Fond du Lac and Manitowoc to Sheboygan North. The Central-Fondy game has definite championship possibilities, depending upon the success of someone to stop Oshkosh before the season is much older.

Oshkosh has averaged 33 points per game in its six contests. Other averages are Central 27.5, Appleton 24, Fond du Lac 23.3, Manitowoc 22.5, West 22, North 18.1 and East 17.5.

East Tops Defense
East has held its opponents to an average of 19.5 points per game to lead the defensive list. Other averages: Fond du Lac 21, Oshkosh and Central 22 1/2 each, West 23.1

Driving 'Honor' in Golf May Be Optional Next Season

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gathering momentum and growing in size these days, like a snowball rolling down hill, is an agitation from which may stem one of the most important golf rules changes since the royal and ancient pastime was born in a Scottish cowpasture more than 500 years ago.

It is an idea to make the "honor" system optional instead of the rigid fixture in force now. The suggested revision is to let the player with the "honor" take it or give it to his opponent, as he chooses.

Under the present rules a player winning a hole drives first off the next tee. It is his "honor."

What does the "honor" do for him? Nothing, unless he happens to be waging in a match where the first ball on the green wins a piece of change.

In important tournament competition there is as much likelihood as not the "honor" will be boomerang to hit its owner figuratively in the eye. Picture on hypothetical incident such as this: It is the last hole of the final match of a national championship. The man with the "honor," he might have held it for 10 holes, or won the last hole to square the count, tees off. A stiff cross wind is blowing. He fails to allow enough for the wind. The ball goes out of bounds, into trees or the rough.

Because he pioneered the way his opponent profits by the experience. It enables him to figure the wind correctly or to play safe. He wins the hole and the title. It was an empty "honor" for the other.

Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager of the P. G. A., said a cross section survey of the touring golfers disclosed overwhelming sentiment in favor of revision of the rule.

Oils Lone Leader in Darby-Sherwood Loop

Standard Oil 11 4
Wet Your Whistle 10 5
Probst Contractors 7 8
Schwabach Drillers 2 13

Little Chute — Standard Oil scored a 3-game win over Schwabach Drillers to go into undisputed first place in the Darby-Sherwood bowling league. Ed Martin blasted a 624 series on games of 222, 220 and 182. Frank Van Dyke had a 613 triple which showed games of 212, 201 and 200. Standard Oils copped high team series with 2,581 and team game honors with 906.

In the Oils-Driller contest, Martin's top scores paced the former while J. Berken kexled a 535 total and tied with G. Schwabach and J. Wittman in high game with a 182.

Purdue Is Added to Ohio Grid Schedule

Columbus, Ohio, (AP)—Addition of Purdue to Ohio State University's 1940 football schedule gives the Big Ten champions a promise of one of the toughest seasons in years.

Purdue was selected to fill an open date Oct. 5. Both Purdue and State were left with schedule vacancies by the University of Chicago's withdrawal from Big Ten football.

America OUT-OF-DOORS

THE NEW LURES HAVE TO BE GOOD

By Cal Johnson

ANGLERS are getting much more particular about the lures they use. That is illustrated by the care with which manufacturers now construct their baits. If the new catalogs are correct in their statements, and I think they are, hooks are set more carefully in plugs and there is little possibility that they will pull out. The poor fisherman will no longer be able to place the blame on his tools.

It seems to me that the tackle people are catering more and more to the anglers who favor spinners or flashy wobblers these days. This is sound judgment for there is no question but that fish will hit a fast-moving lure more quickly, in most cases, than a slow bait.

Color is generally considered an important element in baits, and it would seem that the old, and proven standard colors are the best: reds, greens, silvers and golds. There is little reason for dishing up baits like the Christmas trees we have so recently ornamented.

The green baits are still among the best, and those that attempt to reproduce the exact colors of actual natural fish food stand high, and they should. Most artificial minnows now look like minnows and have a life-like motion that should tempt the most exacting fish epicures.

I have always been of the school which feels that color does not make such a terrific difference in lures. If you hold any object between you and the sun it will appear to be black, unless it is transparent. Fish, as a rule, are looking up when first attracted by a lure, and therefore, the lure looks black to them, if they are color conscious and not color blind. Rainbow effects must go for naught if this is true.

On many days when the fish have been striking well, I have tried color after color and had about the same results when using the same size and type of plug or other artificial bait. Apparently the action of a lure has more to do with whether or not it is capable of inducing fish to strike than has the color of the lure.

Whatever the reason lures cause fish to strike, the manufacturers are doing a better job and are offering better baits this year than ever before.

Holy Name Midgets Lose at Two Rivers

Kimberly — Father Hietpas' Holy Name Midgets lost to St. Luke cagers, 18 to 22, at Two Rivers Sunday afternoon. The Rivers squad had just a little too much height. Kitzke, who was all-tournament forward in the Catholic boys tournament last year at Menasha, scored seven field goals for 14 points for St. Luke. The Midgets were in the lead at the half, 12 to 10.

Next Thursday afternoon the Midgets play St. Mary's of Menasha at the clubhouse in another conference game. On Friday evening, Father Hietpas plans on taking his squad to Seymour where the Midgets will battle with the grade school there in a preliminary which will be followed by Kimberly and Seymour high schools playing off a tie for first place.

Telulah (1) 854 894 802-2550

Art Schink grossed a 202 game and Jake Rink topped a 546 series for high individual marks during Tap-A-Keg league matches at Eagles alleys Sunday. Heinie's Halves collected team honors with a 973 game and 2,760 series.

Heinie's Halves took two games from Telulah Club as Mark Emmers totaled 509 and Elmer Davidson singled 193. High for the losers was Frank Brueggeman with a 450 series. N. Kirk counting a 176 game.

Dribble Inn upset Forster's Eighths in two games as Jake Rink counted 201 and 546. H. Horn also registered a 201. Art Schink maintained the losers with his 202 game and a 519 series.

Pan-American Games Almost a Certainty

New Orleans (AP)—Lorenzo Di Benedetto, president of the national amateur athletic union, says this year's pan-American games are a certainty and that machinery is being set up for a permanent series.

The games, at a site not yet selected, will replace the war-casualty Olympics, he said yesterday, explaining that the committee he appointed assumed Finland would relinquish her plans for the games by the deadline, April 1.

Eagles Club Downs 13th Ward Specials

Eagles Club downed Thirteenth Ward Specials by a margin of 46 pins in a recent match at Eagles alleys. Bud Braeger paced the winners with a 214 game and 554 series while Neil Davidson smacked games of 204 and 244 for a 628 series to top the losers.

The match results:
Eagles (2) 776 798 922-2496

Martha Winus kegged a 475 triple and tied with Toots Jansen with a 161 high game to pace the Main Street Restaurant in a 2-game win over Look's Meats. Helen Hinkens showed a 462 series and a 176 game for the losers.

Restaurants 732 731 662-2125
Looks 718 691 751-2268

Min & Bill's Tavern team scored two wins over Verkullens Furnitures with Habet Busch high for the winners with a 499 series. Bonnie Vander Heuvel showed a 195 game. S. Verhagen blasted a 501 series and a 188 game for the Furnitures.

J. Cavit Rolls 546 in Women's Pin Circuit

Kimberly — J. Cavit rolled a 546 for high series in the women's league last week while G. Courchane rolled a 199 high game. Kitty's Keglers won two from the Midgets with J. Cavit rolling a 546 series and 194 game. D. Rochoon got a 473 series and 191 game. For the Midgets, G. Courchane showed a 536 series and 199 game and D. Van Eyck a 463 series and 184 game.

The Quints won two from the Specials with M. Gossens rolling a 465 series and 170 game. G. Behling had a 455 series and 179 game. For the Specials, A. Fickle got a 479 series and 171 game. A. Newhouse rolled a 436 series and 167 game.

Another DiMaggio to Play in Coast Loop

San Francisco (AP)—Another DiMaggio will be with the San Francisco Seals when they begin spring training Feb. 12.

Three DiMaggios have come and gone—to the majors. There's the famous Joe of the New York Yankees, his older brother, Vince, now with the Cincinnati Reds, and little brother Dominic who goes to the Boston Red Sox this spring.

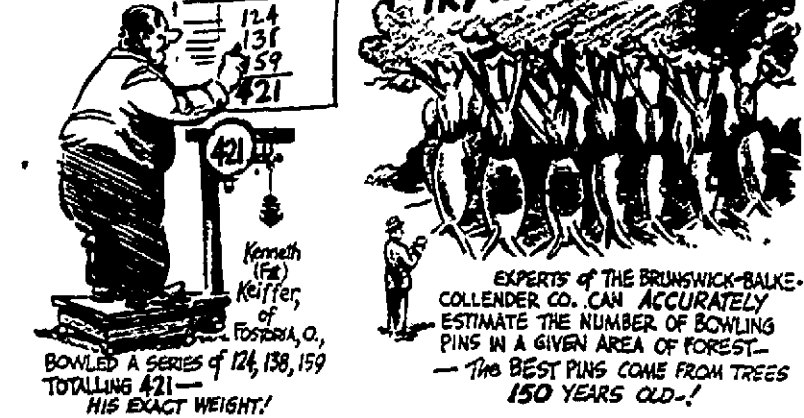

Now comes Sam Salvatore DiMaggio, an 18 year old Monterey, Calif., fisherman who wrote Manager "Lefy" O'Doul he was a good player, that he'd had plenty of experience with semi-pro outfits down Monterey way—and that he was a cousin of Joe, Vince and Dom. Salvatore is a shortstop.

Gear Dairy Keglers Beat Appleton Team

Gear Dairy keggers of Menasha downed Adler Brau keggers of Appleton by a score of 2,862 to 2,664 in a recent match at Hendy alleys in Menasha. Asmus paced the winners with games of 213, 211 and 213 for a 637 series while J. Reynebau maintained the losers with a 243 game and 608 total.

The team scores:

Ski Feud to be Resumed On New London Hill When Arneson, T. Zoberski Ride

NEW LONDON—Settlement of a feud of wooden wings between Ingvar Arneson, New London's "Clas" rider and Ted Zoberski, Ironwood's champion, will feature the sixth annual tournament of the New London Ski club at Mosquito hill Sunday afternoon.

An unexpected friendly rivalry arose between the two jumpers when they beat each other by hairline decisions in last weekend's tournaments.

Both exceeded the hill record at Beloit Saturday when Arneson nosed out Zoberski for sixth place with leaps of 188 and 194 feet for 144.10 points. Zoberski was just one point behind with leaps of 191 and 188.

At the Chicago Norse club's meet Sunday, Zoberski beat Arneson for fifth place by half a point, making jumps of 169 and 182 feet for 141.9 points.

Headline entries for Sunday's tournament will not be known definitely until official entry blanks are received the latter part of this week, according to J. W. Monsted, secretary.

See New Record
That the old record of 160 feet will fall, even in poor weather, is the general contention of skiers and workmen alike as the result of last summer's improvements to the landing hill and take-off. A crew of volunteer workmen prepared the hill and landing Saturday and Sunday. Favorable weather last week ended in breaking of hill records by wide margins on many slides in the Central United States circuit and the same is expected here Sunday.

New London's present record, set in the teeth of a crosswind gale last year, exceeds the American amateur national record of 158 feet made in 1913 when ski jumping was nine years old, according to figures compiled by the National Ski association. First records dating back to 1904 reveal the best distance was 82 feet while the American record set last year by Bob Roeker, former New London rider, is 257 feet. The world's record is 350 feet established in Europe in 1938 by Joseph Bradi of Austria.

Headline entries for Sunday's tournament will not be known definitely until official entry blanks are received the latter part of this week, according to J. W. Monsted, secretary.

Kimberly Splits In League Games

Papermakers Bow to Ironwood But Defeat Rhinelanders

Kimberly—The A. A. cagers made it one and one over the weekend on a road trip in Wisconsin Michigan league competition. They were defeated by Ironwood, 40 to 27, Sunday afternoon but won over Rhinelanders in the evening, 42 to 31.

The squad now has six wins and two defeats in league standings.

In the Rhinelanders game, Van Dyke was "hot" scoring 13 points for the Papermakers on five baskets and three free throws. Bowman and LeMay each made four buckets and in addition Bowman dropped in a free throw.

Court Takes CIO Union's Action Under Advisement

Rock River Woolen Mills Employee Election Is Under Fire

Janesville.—(P)—Circuit Judge Jesse Earle had under advisement today an action brought by the CIO Textile Workers Union of America in an effort to have set aside an employee election conducted at the Rock River Woolen Mills by the state employment relations board.

A hearing of the case terminated abruptly late yesterday when the defendants—the state board, the mill and Bert Hutchison, a mill employee—decided not to offer testimony.

Judge Earle instructed the plaintiffs to file briefs within 10 days, and the defendants within 20. Meanwhile, an employee election to determine a bargaining agent will be conducted at the plant Friday by the National Labor Relations board.

Five plaintiffs' witnesses were heard yesterday as the union local requested the court to review certification of the election conducted by the state board last November. The union also asked that the state board's election proceedings be declared null and void, and demands that the act creating the board be declared unconstitutional.

Mill employees voted against representation by the CIO local in the election. Earlier, however, the union had asked the national board to certify the mill's bargaining agency, and the NLRB set Jan. 26 as the election date.

From its witnesses, the union attempted to determine what brought the state labor board into the case, as well as the part played by the Janesville Civic and Industrial Council.

Witnesses included L. E. Gooding, chairman of the state employment relations board; Pierpont J. E. Wood, attorney for the mill; Louis Schultz, Milwaukee, national CIO union representative; James Tail, mill manager, and A. Roger Hook, secretary of the Janesville Civic and Industrial Council.

Hook said that when a strike was threatened at the mill he contacted the state board and asked what steps could be taken to keep the mill in operation and prevent the strike.

Wisconsin Weather
Cloudy tonight and Wednesday with snow, mostly light; colder extreme northwest and extreme northeast portions tonight; colder Wednesday, continued cold Thursday.

General Weather

Light snow has fallen since yesterday morning over sections of the north central states and rain or snow over the southern states, with over 5 inches of snow falling at Atlanta, Ga. Snow also fell at Galveston, Texas. Fair weather prevailed this morning over the New England states and over all sections from the plains states westward.

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded this morning over central and western Wisconsin and sections of the central plains states and northern Rocky mountains, with -14 degrees reported at Wausau and -11 degrees at Madison and La Crosse. Cold weather continues over the southern states, with a minimum of 16 degrees reported at Galveston.

Some light snow and colder weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours.

ANOTHER BRITISH DESTROYER SUNK BY GERMANS
The British Admiralty disclosed in London that the 1,485-ton destroyer Grenville (above) has been sunk in the North Sea by a "mine or torpedo." The Grenville was Britain's twenty-first acknowledged fleet loss of the war.

The American government has stated repeatedly, further commercial relations between the two countries depend upon developments in the Far East. By developments were meant the Japanese attitude toward Americans' rights in China.

2. Was there any possibility of an exchange of notes between the two governments defining the status of trade relations?

Horinouchi was told that this would have to be held open and presumably would form a part of the discussions which have been taking place in Tokyo between Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and the Japanese foreign office.

3. What will be the status of Japanese merchants who under treaty provisions have been doing business in the United States? (The 1911 treaty provides that merchants of each country may do business in the other country, enjoying full protection and equality with other merchants of the same country with regard to taxation, and the like.)

The ambassador was told that it has been decided that aliens who cease to have the status of "treaty merchants" may be permitted to qualify as visitors temporarily admitted for business or pleasure. He was informed further that in the absence of a treaty of commerce between the United States and Japan it was expected that applications for admission of Japanese nationals desiring to enter the United States temporarily for business or pleasure would be considered in the light of the existing law and regulations applicable to visas for temporary visitors.

Following his talk with Berle, the ambassador said he hoped trade relations with the United States would continue after Friday as before.

Prepare for Taxing Of Officials' Wages

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison.—The Wisconsin County Boards association today reminded local officials that this year for the first time the federal government will levy an income tax on their salaries. County authorities were advised that they are required to file names and salaries paid to their employees with the internal revenue bureau at Washington by Feb. 13 on 1939 earnings.

Under new laws, the federal government will collect taxes from state and municipal employees in return for the right of the state to assess federal employees within its boundaries.

Backed New Deal

Browder said the Communist party had supported the New Deal "up to last August when a great shift" had taken place and the New Deal abandoned its progressive program in favor of an alliance with its erstwhile "reactionary opponent."

"So long as the camp of reaction found any obstacle in the New Deal, we supported it," he shouted. "But when peace was made with the economic royalists, they could not carry us along with them."

"We Communists were a part of the Democratic bloc. We were the poor relations, even though Governor Lehman occupies his position instead of Thomas E. Dewey (Republican gubernatorial candidate in the last New York state election) on account of the votes the Communist party."

Referring to Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, he said: "When the governor of Michigan in 1938 was deserted by his own political machine and faced with a stiff fight with the Republicans, he was glad to get the support of the Communist party. . . . He would not deny he had long intimate conferences with Communists as to how best to conduct his campaign for governor."

"But he lost. . . . After he was defeated he saw a great light. He became convinced he had made a great mistake when he failed to heed the advice of some of our 'best families.' And there was opened up the prospect for him to retire to the most exclusive old men's club in America."

Sees War On Labor

In his speech, he paid little attention to the details of his trial, of his conviction on charges—which he had admitted anyway—of using names not his own on passports so that he might pass through countries where his communistic identity might have proved troublesome.

Instead, he told his listeners: "It is not enough to say that the motives of the prosecution lie in the general campaign of the ruling class to prepare this country for war. The trial today is the opening gun to curb the labor movement."

"It belongs with the war and hunger budget—the campaign against labor leaders."

He said a "capitalist court" had convicted him "because the communists stand in the way of efforts of President Roosevelt and Wall

Grain Trade Wonders as U. S. Asks Wheat Loans be Paid

BY FRANKLIN MULLIN

Chicago.—(P)—Wheat worth more than $150,000,000, pawned to the world's most famous lender of money, Uncle Sam, loomed today as a bulky asset on the books of thousands of farm producers and as an intricate puzzle to many dealers and processors in the grain trade.

The "pawn broker" wants his money back, and grain men think he will get it, with interest. But what's become of the collateral thus "thawed"? they ask. Loans may be called at the end of the next two or three months.

At present there's a profit for all concerned, thanks to war in Europe and crop damage in Argentina and the domestic southwest—factors which have lifted wheat prices to around $1 a bushel.

At one time farmers had approximately 166,000,000 bushels of wheat under lock and key, obtaining four per cent interest loans from the government or banks in their communities. Inasmuch as these loans were based at an average rate of about 61 cents, the price rise more than takes care of interest and carrying charges, grain men said.

They estimated that producers have redeemed perhaps 4,000,000 bushels in the past few weeks. There were more than 161,000,000 bushels under loan on Jan. 1.

The Commodity Credit Corporation announced that loans on 3,500,000 bushels of 1938 wheat would not be extended beyond March 31 and that it does not contemplate extending any loans on 1939 grain maturing April 30 except 23,000,000 bushels on farms in the spring wheat zone. Grain men said that if this plan were not changed, approximately 17 per cent of the 1939 crop which has been held off the market to stabilize prices would be "freed" a few weeks prior to the 1940 harvest.

They assumed that if present paper profits are not seriously reduced by lower prices farmers would elect to redeem wheat rather than turn it over to the government in default of loans. This would not necessarily mean that the redeemed wheat would be put on the market, because it could be held or even pledged as collateral again on private loans, they said.

Switzerland Is Winning Export Trade Struggle

Berne, Switzerland.—(P)—Official Swiss statistics show that this little land-locked nation is winning a battle to maintain vital export trade by readjusting industries to wartime conditions.

Swiss exports, on which the country lives, dropped 54 per cent during the first month of the war, but climbed back close to normal during December.

Total December exports amounted to 120 million Swiss francs (nearly $27,000,000) compared to September's figure of 52 million francs (about $12,000,000). The December, 1938, total was 124 million francs ($28,000,000).

Complete details concerning the reason for the rise were not given, but a partial breakdown showed that the Swiss chemical and pharmaceutical industries accounted for more than a quarter of the export total and their output was well above the 1938 level.

Chemical industries in Switzerland hit a boom after the war started again and began supplying dyes, and other products which the Germans once turned out.

Swiss cheese exports more than doubled over the last year to reach a monthly total of 6,500,000 francs ($1,500,000), due chiefly to the lack of Finnish cheeses on the British market.

64 Contagious Cases Reported During Week

Sixty-four cases of contagion were reported in Outagamie county during the week ended Jan. 13, according to information received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, from the state board of health.

Appleton reported 25 cases of chicken pox, 13 cases of measles, 5 cases of whooping cough and a case of mumps. Kaukauna reported three cases of chicken pox and Grand Chute two of chicken pox and one of whooping cough. Oneida reported three cases of influenza and one of tuberculosis, and Hortonville one of influenza and one of tuberculosis. Bear Creek village reported a case of pneumonia. Bovina two cases. Deer Creek one, Maine two and Shiocton two.

Champ Slipping, He Ate Only 52 Pancakes

Humboldt, Iowa.—(P)—As a pancake consumer, Charley Sharp is slipping, but he is still among the best.

Sharp, 71-year-old retired farmer, consumed 52 cakes and 29 cups of coffee to win a Pancake Day festival contest here.

Last year he ate 55 cakes and drank 33 cups of coffee to take top honors.

Democrats to Select Candidate Delegates

Four candidate delegates at large will be named at a state meeting of Democrats at Milwaukee this weekend, according to Gustave J. Keller, president of the Democratic Organization of Wisconsin, a liberal group. Two candidate delegates for the Eighth district probably will be named Sunday morning at Milwaukee, Keller said. The Seventh district selected delegates Sunday at Stevens Point.

Asks $900 for Ravine As Place to Dump Snow

A claim for $900 for use of the property as a ravine, for dumping snow was filed Monday against the city by Anton Stadler, owner of the property, according to Carl J. Becker, city clerk. Stadler in his claims said the use of the property for a snow dump is worth $150 per year to the city and said the city has been dumping snow there for six years or more. The claim will be submitted by the clerk at the next meeting of the common council.

Prices of Wheat Dip After Steady Start at Chicago

Market Weakens Under Heavy Liquidating Pressure

Chicago.—(P)—After a steady start, the wheat market weakened today under liquidating pressure and at times lost as much as 14 cents a bushel.

Some stop-loss selling entered the market as May fell below the dollar mark. Occasional support was attributed to shorts, but buying interest generally was light.

May contracts fell to 99½, down 1½ cents, and July to 98½, down 1½ cents. Receipts were: wheat five cars, corn 51, oats five.

Wheat closed 1-1½, lower, May 99½, July 96½; corn 1-1½ down, May and July 57½; oats 1-1½ down.

State High Court Will Hear Appeal In Christian Case

Family Seeks Damages From City Utility in Death of Boy

New London—The appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Christian for triple damages in the amount of $14,280 for the death of their son, Byron, Jr., who was electrocuted by a broken electric light wire on Aug. 3, 1937, will be heard in the Wisconsin State Supreme court at Madison at 1:30 Monday afternoon, Feb. 12, according to notice received yesterday by Giles H. Putnam, city attorney.

The appeal was entered last August after Circuit Judge Herman J. Severson of Waupaca set aside the action of a fact-finding jury which in April, 1939, awarded damages of $4,760 to the Christians on the grounds that the city was negligent in maintaining the line.

Byron Christian, Jr., was electrocuted when he picked up a fallen live wire owned by the New London Light and Water Utility. Judge Severson ruled on a point of law defining the service of the utility as a governmental function and, as such, the utility is not responsible for the negligence of its servants. The plaintiffs claim the city violated regulations of the public service commission and the statutes and that the municipally owned utility is liable the same as a privately owned plant. If so, the city is liable for treble damages.

The question of the city's liability under such circumstances has never been decided by the supreme court under the present statutes.

The plaintiffs will be represented by Attorneys Brazeau of Wisconsin Rapids and Walter Melchior of Appleton.

Young People's Group To Hold Sleigh Ride Party Saturday Night

New London—The Young People's society of the Congregational church will hold a sleigh ride party for members and their friends, starting from the church at 7:30 Saturday evening, weather permitting. When plans were made Sunday evening, Bob Patchen was appointed to arrange sleighs; Alice Stanley, refreshments; Kenneth Ross and Jack Seering, invitations; Gordon Melchior, cleanup. After the sleigh ride, the party will return to the church parlors for hot refreshments and games.

County Nurse Is Rotary Speaker

Outlines Plans for Her Activities in Address At Clintonville

Clintonville—Rotarians of this city Monday had as their guest Miss Catherine L. Chambers, the new Waupaca county nurse. Miss Chambers began her new duties in this county early in January after having served for the last year and a half as a public health nurse in District No. 8 of the Wisconsin Board of Health with her headquarters at Rhinelander.

Miss Chambers outlined plans for her work in this community. She stressed the fact that she wishes to cooperate in her public health work with local physicians, dentists, schools and service clubs. She also told the club members about some of her experiences in working for the state board of health in the vicinity of Rhinelander.

A maternal and child health center will be held at the city hall in Clintonville on Wednesday, under the sponsorship of the Clintonville Woman's club with Mrs. Max Stieg as chairman. Registrations will be received from 8:30 to 11:30 in the morning and from 1 o'clock to 3:30 in the afternoon. Dr. Mary Allen of the state board of health will conduct the examinations for infants and children up to six years of age, who are accompanied by their parents.

Ten Northeastern States May Settle November Ballot

Survey Shows Evenly Divided Area Will be Chief Battleground

Princeton, N. J.—If the November presidential election were being held today, the chief battleground would be a band of ten northeastern states ranging from the Hudson to the Mississippi and accounting for a total of 206 of the 531 votes in the electoral college.

That fact is indicated in sectional returns in the latest political study of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

The survey shows that New England is leaning to the Republican side and that the South and the West are strongly Democratic in sentiment. But sentiment in the Middle Atlantic and East Central states is so evenly divided at the present time that neither John D. M. Hamilton nor Jim Farley can count them as safe.

Here is the way the two sections divide at the present time, in answer to the question: "Which party would you like to see win the presidential election in 1940?"

Favoring Dem. ing Rep. Middle Atlantic States 52% 48% East Central States 48 52

Numbered among the Middle Atlantic states are New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

The East Central states are Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

Throughout the area as a whole the institute found approximately one voter in six undecided or without a definite opinion on his choice this time.

The vote in the remaining sections of the country is: New England, 58 per cent Republican; West Central states, 51 per cent Democratic; South, 75 per cent Democratic; and West, 60 per cent Democratic. For the country as a whole, 54 per cent said they hoped to see a Democratic President elected, while 46 per cent favored a Republican.

Political sentiment may change substantially next summer when the actual nominations of the two great parties have been made, but the present survey gives an advance picture of where the Democrats and Republicans will try to "bear down" most, where some of the most important campaign speeches will be made, and where the struggle for votes will continue with great intensity up to the eve of election day.

The clue to the problem is the big allotment of electoral votes which these ten northeastern states control. New England (leaning Republican today) has only 41 electoral votes, and the South and West together (leaning Democratic) 211. Neither bloc of states can muster the necessary 268 electoral college votes for a majority.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that all three of the Republican Presidential possibilities most frequently mentioned by the rank-and-file—Thomas E. Dewey, Senator Vandenberg and Senator Taft—come from the "battleground" area. So does President Roosevelt himself, whose plans for 1940 remain a mystery.

How would the "battleground" section vote if the Democratic candidate were President Roosevelt again and Thomas E. Dewey, who is leading in the Institute's Republican preference tests today? As usual when flesh-and-blood candidates are placed together in such "trial heats," President Roosevelt gains the support of a few additional voters who are not anxious for a third term but who prefer him to individual Republican candidates.

The present survey shows that a slight majority of Middle Atlantic state voters (52%) now think they

Brillion Lutheran Congregation Has Its Annual Meeting

Brillion—The annual meeting of Trinity Lutheran congregation was held at the church Sunday afternoon. George Voss was re-elected president and trustees and Paul Noeldner and Fred Behnke, Jr. were elected trustees for a three year term. The hold-over trustees are Walter Fuhrmann, Otto Sticker, Charles Behnke, Edgar Wolf and Herman Behnke. Edwin Groth, secretary, and Victor Wolf, treasurer, also will serve for another term. Besides the church board an envelope committee consisting of Frank Lemke and Otto Dreger was elected.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Krueger entertained friends and relatives at a 6 o'clock dinner at their home Sunday in honor of the latter's birthday anniversary. After dinner schafskopf was played. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Krueger and son Donald of Manitowish, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wagner and daughter Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wittenberg and son Harold of Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Borgenson and family of Sheboygan.

Mrs. William Link and infant son returned home Sunday from St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Biederwolf and family have taken up residence in their recently purchased home on Dewey street.

Members of the five hundred club suppers Mrs. Edward Keller at her home on Monday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Charles Jensen entertained the members of her birthday club at her home Saturday afternoon. Those present were the Mesdames J. W. Galloway, C. H. Kuehl, Otto Zander, J. E. Heath, Henry Leppa, Elmer Schmelter and Harold Jensen.

Miss Anna Barnard was hostess to the members of her birthday bridge club at her home Friday afternoon. High honors were received by Mrs. Edwin John, Mrs. S. T. Barnard and Mrs. Charles Zutz. Mrs. William Abel received the floater and Mrs. Elmer Schmelter received a special prize. Those present were the Mesdames Rudolph Kruschinski, R. W. Schulze, Helena Koch, August Schaefer, Joseph Binsfeld, Russell Pease of Valders and Miss Johanna Schwartz.

Chilton Woman's Club Has Benefit Card Party

Chilton—The Chilton Woman's club held its regular meeting at the city hall Monday afternoon. After a short business meeting the members held a card party for the benefit of the Chilton public library. Honors at auction bridge went to Mrs. Ida Boll, Mrs. G. M. Morrissey and Mrs. A. J. Pfeffer; and in contract the prize was awarded to Mrs. Anna Piper.

Following the card party a lunch was served by the following hostesses: Mrs. Roland Tesch, Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mrs. John Goggins and Mrs. Carl Hofmeister.

would prefer Roosevelt to Dewey, while 53 per cent in the East Central states think they would prefer Dewey.
